

Blair Has Chosen Missouri Newsman As His Assistant

Jack Stapleton Will Start Work Monday to Run Public Relations, Patronage, Other Related Duties

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Elect James T. Blair Jr., appointed Jack Stapleton, Stanberry newspaper publisher, as his administrative assistant today.

Stapleton, who will start work Monday, will handle patronage, public relations and other administrative duties. Blair emphasized that Stapleton was not a candidate for the job and had to be persuaded to take it.

Stapleton, 57, was Blair's primary election campaign manager and worked in Democratic state headquarters during the general election campaign. He also worked in the campaigns of former Govs. Lloyd C. Stark and Forrest Smith.

He served on the Board of Regents for Northwest Missouri State College at Maryville during the administration of Gov. Guy Park and on the State Tax Commission under Gov. Stark.

He is a former president of the Northwest Missouri Press Assn.

The new administrative assistant is a graduate of Washington University and took a post graduate course at the Columbia University school of journalism.

He and Jack Stapleton Jr., his son, own the Stanberry Headlight and the Dunklin Daily Democrat at Kennett. With Glenn Kehr they also own the Albany Ledger and the Albany Capital, both weekly papers like the Headlight.

The appointment was the second announced by Blair, who will be inaugurated as Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's successor Jan. 14. Last week he announced he will appoint Col. Hugh H. Waggoner for a third term as superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol.

At his news conference today the governor-elect said he plans to sit in with Democratic senators at their organization caucus tomorrow afternoon and outline his legislative program as he did for the House Democrats Monday.

Next week he said he would ask Republican House and Senate members to meet with him for a similar conference and seek their cooperation in a series of meetings he plans before the 1957 Legislature convenes Jan. 2.

City Officials Call for US To Pay Taxes

ST. LOUIS (AP) — City officials of the nation have called for an end of federal immunity from local taxes.

The declaration was among resolutions approved by the American Municipal Assn. at the final session yesterday of its 33rd annual congress, attended by about 1,500 mayors and other city officials. They also urged federal aid for economically depressed areas and urged creation of a new cabinet post for urban affairs.

The new president of the organization is Mayor Ben West of Nashville, Tenn., elected to succeed Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City.

Immunity of the federal government, the association said, has reduced the tax base of municipalities. It recommended payments to city governments of local property taxes or payment of an annual sum in lieu of taxes on federally owned property.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) earlier told the organization he will introduce such legislation. A similar measure, sponsored by the Minnesota senator, died last July in the Senate.

A former mayor of Minneapolis, Humphrey said the government owns 410 million acres—or about one-fourth of the nation's total land area—and that its property acquisitions continually reduce the tax base of municipalities.

The move will be more economical for the commission since right of way can be acquired before any land that might be needed is further developed.

Warmup Is Forecast After Freeze Over Most of Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri had a cold night, the mercury dropping to well below the freezing mark over most of the state. But the weatherman says a warm up is ahead with lows to night in the 20s and highs Friday in the 40s.

Overnight lows included Kirksville 11, Butler and Sedalia 15, Joplin and St. Joseph 16, Kansas City, Springfield and West Plains 19, St. Louis and Rolla 20, Columbia 21, Farmington 23 and Malden 27.

The temperature one year ago today high 27, low 9; two years ago, high 45, low 25; and three years ago, high 52, low 33 degrees.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks 52.7 steady.

Highway 65 North of 40 Will Be Moved

New Road Will Eliminate Sharp Curves and Grades

The Missouri State Highway Commission has approved the tentative route for an approximate 12-mile-long relocation of U.S. Route 65 in Saline County, from Marshall south to Marshall Junction.

The action follows thorough studies made in the area to be served to determine its needs and the proper steps necessary to facilitate over-all traffic movement.

All of the approved tentative route is on new location. It leaves present U.S. Route 65 about a half mile west of the Route 41 intersection, near the northwest city limits of Marshall. It swings south-easterly about a half mile, then turns south along the city limits. It extends south for about two miles, then swings southeasterly another mile and a half to a point adjacent to the present highway.

It then parallels existing U.S. Route 65 for a little over a mile on the west side before crossing the highway and extending south on the east side for about 5½ miles, paralleling it for about three miles and then being up to as much as a half mile distant from it.

The road then swings back south-westerly to cross again the present highway, turn south, rejoin it and junction with the proposed location for the new interstate route a short distance north of the present junction.

When this relocation is constructed it will include a high type pavement for the entire length with part of it incorporating controlled access.

The new highway will replace an existing 18-foot wide pavement which has undesirable grades and alignment for modern day driving. When built, the new highway would have no curves of more than three degrees and no grades of more than four per cent. No count is available on the entire present stretch, but there are 22 curves of six degrees or more on the south four miles of the present highway.

Approval of the tentative location has been given by the commission at this time, both as an economy measure and as an aid to local area residents. By planning the road and acquiring right of ways at an early date it will be easier for residential and commercial developments to be fitted into the highway pattern.

The move will be more economical for the commission since right of way can be acquired before any land that might be needed is further developed.

Iraq's Premier Is Firm

He Resists Mounting Campaign to Stir Up Trouble and Refuses To Resign From Post

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq's Premier Nuri Said is reported standing firm against a mounting campaign aimed at stirring up trouble in Iraq and discrediting his government. The controlling pro-Soviet army clique in Syria and the Egyptian government are believed sponsoring the campaign.

Khalil Ibrahim, Iraqi information director, declared the Premier has no intention of quitting his post or making changes in his Cabinet "for the time being."

The Baghdad military governor broadcast an appeal to the people urging them to be calm and not to yield to "subversive elements" which the government says are trying to incite widespread demonstrations.

Nuri's government denied reports that dozens of persons have been killed and wounded in Iraq's main cities. It reiterated that only two civilians were killed and some police and civilians wounded in a clash in the holy Moslem city of Najaf, in southwest Iraq.

Damascus radio declared 104 Iraqis were killed in four days of antigovernment demonstrations in Najaf. It asserted the "victims fell by police fire" as they protested against Nuri's government and demanded support for Egypt. Iraq has accused Syria of waging a campaign of subversion against the Nuri government. Syria has charged Iraq with seeking to undermine the governments of both Syria and Jordan. Egyptian President Nasser is believed spurring the Syrians on.

Evidence of Syria's propaganda campaign is as marked in Baghdad as in Lebanon. It is sparked by radio broadcasts of inflammatory rumors.

Ibrahim asserted in an interview that the greatest danger in the Middle East comes from open efforts of world communism to attack Arab stability.

Ibrahim spiked one specific rumor broadcast by Syria—that Gen. Tarak Said, commander of the Habbaniya Air Base, had been arrested.

The government also denied Damascus reports that army officers were being court-martialed for protesting British use of the Habbaniya base.

Pettis County Receives Quota For Hungary Aid

Pettis County has been assigned a quota of $884 in a Red Cross drive for additional funds to supply Hungarian refugees with food, medical supplies, clothing and other essentials.

In a message from E. Roland Harriman, national chairman, it was pointed out that refugees pour into Austria by the thousands and the Austrian Government has turned to the Red Cross to assume responsibility for them. It is reported that more than 83,000 refugees have already crossed the Hungarian border.

Chapters are requested to launch a campaign for $5 million. Harriman urges chapters to take all possible steps in putting this appeal before the people of the community.

John C. Ryan, local chairman, urges that everyone contribute to the cause. Contributions can be taken or mailed to the chapter office at 112 West Fourth.

Santa Claus Will Ride On Fire Truck in Parade

"Ho! Ho! Ho!" said Santa when he talked to Ed Kehde about the Christmas parade which will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. "I always like to come to Sedalia because I get to ride on the fire truck."

Kehde said that Santa thinks it is so much more fun on the fire truck because he likes red, any way. If it wasn't his favorite color, why would he always dress in red, he asks. And then, too, it gives him a better opportunity to see all the youngsters, he can look down on the crowds and in that way he is certain he won't miss any of the children. He can tell just by looking, too, whether they are good or bad.

The parade will start forming at 16th from Vermont west, and will move east down 16th to Kentucky, north on Kentucky to 14th, east on 14th to Ohio, north on Ohio to Main and west on Main to Osage, south on Osage to Third, Fourth and Fifth where the parade will disassemble.

The parade will be led by Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors followed by the Tipton High School band, Civil Air Patrol color guard, then Mayor Julian H. Bagby, Whiteman Air Force Base dignitaries, Pettis County officials, Judge Frank Monroe, Judge Ed Callis and Judge E. L. Birdsong, Chamber of Commerce officials, highway patrol, Hubbard High School band, Federated Congregational Church, Presbyterian Church float, East Broadway Christian Church float, Hughesville School float, Hughesville School band, Ringen Brushy 4-H float, Job's Daughters float, Girl Scouts float, Hubbard High School float, Brownie Troops decorated car, First Methodist Church float, LaMonte Busy Beavers 4-H float, the Missouri Pacific Boosters Club float, Boy Scout Troop 150 Color Guard, Clown Band, Xi Omega Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi float, Daughters of Isabella float, Beta Tau Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi float, Business and Professional Women's Club float, Toastmasters float, LaMonte High School band, Epsilon Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi float, Missouri Pacific Women's Club float, American Business Women's Association float, Quisenberry 4-H Club float, Green Ridge band, Optimist Club float, Lions Club float, Smith-Cotton High School Band, Jaycees float, the fire truck with Santa and the Western Horse Saddle Club.

The department hopes that next year some 40 to 45 million acres of cropland will be taken out of production and put into the acreage reserve or conservation reserve parts of the soil bank. Under the conservation reserve, the former cropland is planted to grass or trees.

The spokesman said in response to a query that, in general, it would not profit a person to buy a farm with the idea that he would put all the land he could into the soil bank program, collect the government checks, and farm little or none of it himself.

He conceded, however, that in certain marginal land areas where crops normally are poor this might work out as a paying proposition. In such a case, he said, the land would have to be cheap and the soil bank payment for the crops in the area would have to be relatively generous.

"In good corn land, for instance, where it sells for from $350 to $550 an acre in such states as Illinois, Iowa or Indiana that would not pay," he said. "The maximum payment he would get in the acreage reserve program would be about $60 to $65 an acre."

The spokesman said it would be difficult to set up ironclad procedures to assure that in no case would it pay a person to buy farm land merely to receive government payments for crops not planted.

He said the department was up against the problem of fixing procedures to apply "clear across the board."

Will Not Allow Cars To Be Parked on Ohio On Saturday Morning

No parking on Ohio between Main and Broadway will be permitted Saturday morning until after the annual Christmas parade which gets underway at 10:30 a.m. Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors issued the "no parking" order Thursday.

Chief Neighbors stated police officers will be on hand to keep cars from parking at any time. However, he reported, up to about 10 o'clock trucks which must make deliveries will be permitted to stop and make such deliveries. No truck deliveries will be permitted after 10 o'clock until after the parade has completed its route down Ohio.

Because of the large floats, the bands, and other participants in the line of march which need the necessary space along the route, and so people can stand on the sidewalk and see, it was decided to not permit the parking of vehicles.

Should a car get on Ohio and park and is left there, the owner may return to find it missing. Orders are being issued to have cars towed off the street and the owner of the car will have the tow charge assessed against him.

British Say Plans Call for 'Phased' Troop Withdrawal

Foreign Secretary Lloyd Tells House of Commons He Will Defer Statement Until Talk With Pineau

LONDON (AP) — The British government announced today its policy calls for a "phased withdrawal" of British forces from Egypt.

The United Nations last Saturday called for immediate and total withdrawal of British, French and Israeli forces.

Lord Salisbury, the government leader in the House of Lords, told the upper chamber tonight:

"Our policy is that of a phased withdrawal."

"I understand that a battalion has already left."

Shortly before Salisbury spoke, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons he was deferring a final statement on withdrawal pending consultations here tomorrow with French Foreign Secretary Christian Pineau. He said he would make a further statement Monday.

At the same time Lloyd strongly hinted that a step-by-step withdrawal was contemplated, after paying tribute to the United Nations for its continuing military buildup in the Suez area, Lloyd declared:

"Obviously the buildup of the force must have an important relationship to a phased withdrawal of our own and French troops."

A qualified informant said last night the British plan is to begin within a few days a withdrawal in stages, but to leave behind a royal navy unit and civilian salvage experts who would help the

Voorhees Will Study Quota For Refugees

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower today named Tracy S. Voorhees, former Undersecretary of the Army, to coordinate the Hungarian refugee program and study whether more than 5,000 should be admitted to this country.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Voorhees, now a New York attorney and a consultant to the Defense Department, is taking over the new assignment immediately and will serve without pay.

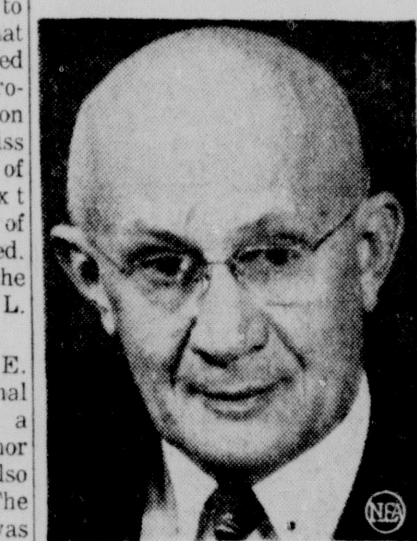

The President recently directed that up to 5,000 refugees from Soviet oppression in Hungary be admitted to the United States. The first groups have been arriving at a reception center at Camp Kilmer, N.J., and elsewhere since Nov. 21.

Hagerty said anew today it has been a possibility all along that the quota might be increased to more than 5,000. He said Voorhees will study that matter with Scott McLeod, administrator of the refugee relief law.

At Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here, Hagerty said Voorhees will serve as the President's personal representative "in connection with Hungarian refugee and relief activities in this country."

Hagerty said Eisenhower decided to appoint Voorhees "to assure full coordination of this work with the various voluntary and government agencies, and he has asked Mr. Voorhees to see that effective machinery is promptly set up to accomplish this purpose."

Lloyd told the House: "The U. N. force has now been constituted and is growing in numbers, and I pay tribute to the speed with which the secretary general and his advisers have acted."

"By Dec. 1, there will be about 2,700 men in Egypt and within 14 days there should be 4,400, among which will be some 700 Canadian troops."

Lloyd said there should be an organized U. N. force on the ground within two weeks, with two armored car companies and supporting units."

U.N. Secretary Sets Deadline For Budapest

Will Prepare Action By the Assembly On Observers Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Dag Hammarskjöld will open the way for General Assembly action on Hungary's refusal to let in U.N. observers unless he gets definite word today from Budapest, informed sources said.

The informants said the secretary general had decided to set the immediate deadline on reporting success or failure to the Assembly after more than two weeks of evasive answers from representatives of Hungary's Russian-puppet government.

A U.N. spokesman said Hammarskjöld spoke to Hungary's foreign minister Imre Horvath again last night and got the usual reply that word had not come down from Budapest.

Subsequently Moscow radio said Hungarian Premier Janos Kadar told a correspondent of the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda he was standing fast on his decision to bar both U.N. observers and Hammarskjöld from Hungary.

A decision by Hammarskjöld to place the matter before the Assembly at this stage could unleash a growing campaign among delegates to expel the Hungarians from the world body they joined less than a year ago.

Cuban Delegate Emilio Nunez Portuondo called on the Assembly earlier this week to throw out the Hungarian delegation if the Budapest regime persisted in brushing off U.N. requests for an on-the-spot check.

In opposing the Assembly resolutions, both the Hungarian and Soviet delegations have contended the situation in Hungary is an internal affair and none of the U.N.'s business. Kadar repeated this to the Pravda correspondent.

The Hungarians said two weeks ago, however, that they would allow U.N. relief supplies to enter their borders and indicated they would let U.N. personnel go along.

This prompted Hammarskjöld to suggest that he accompany a relief mission into Budapest. The Hungarians have not given a formal reply to this offer, but Moscow radio said Kadar told Pravda "the U.N. secretary general . . . has been sent enough material, documents and testimonies. We suggested a meeting with him in Rome and are not to blame for the fact that it did not materialize."

One Way of Looking At It— Thinks Pure Confusion Has Been Gained Out of Disorder

LONDON (AP)—"Well," said our friend Percy the bartender, "the International situation looks a bit better today."

We said it didn't look much better to us.

"Why, of course it is," said Percy. "At last they've produced a little pure confusion out of all that disorder."

We asked what did he mean by that?

"Why, for one thing," Percy returned, "the Jordanians have decided to finish with that friendship pact they had with us. So now us British won't have to fight the Israelis in defense of the Jordanians whilst at the same time fighting the Egyptians on the same side as the Israelis. This is a big improvement."

We asked, had he noticed any other improvements?

"Certainly," said Percy, "you take anti-Americanism for instance."

"It used to be the Conservatives and their old colonial types that were putting up America as the world's great defender of freedom."

"At that time the Laborites, who are anti-colonial, were condemning you Yanks as dollar diplomats and enemies of the welfare state."

"This Suez do has changed all that. The Conservatives now say the whole thing was a plot by you dollar diplomats to grab all the oil markets. Meanwhile the Laborites are praising you for telling Britain to get out of poor little Egypt, thus upholding freedom."

"You might say," Percy summed up, "that what you Yanks have lost on the roundabouts."

We asked, did he hear many complaints about the gasoline shortage?

"Quite a few," replied Percy, "but the ones that are complaining the loudest are the ones who couldn't afford to own a motor scooter if an inch of petrol fell daily at high noon, like rain."

"By the way," he added, "the Americans think Eden has a future?"

We said we would prefer not to make any statements which might get us interned as an enemy alien.

We asked, what about the third school?

"Some of those rough types in the public bar," said Percy, "are saying he won't even bother to come back from Jamaica, especially if it's a cold winter."

Court Won't Dismiss Suit Against Disney

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A court has refused to dismiss actor Kirk Douglas' $415,000 suit against Walt Disney Productions.

Superior Judge Leon T. David denied the defense motion yesterday and gave Disney 20 days to answer Douglas' claim that pictures of the actor and his children taken at the Disney home Aug. 1 were used without authorization.

"It is not enough to say that because he is a motion picture personality and a public character, he has no private rights in the matter," said the court, adding: "Motion picture actors are not altogether 'goldfish in a bowl,'" as the defense had argued.

Other Woman In Suit Will Be Subpoenaed To Appear in Court

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The other woman in the Bushere separate maintenance case is due for a surprise.

Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle continued the hearing of Mrs. Barbara Bushere yesterday after her lawyer, S. S. Hahn, told the court: "Her husband, (Frank Bushere, bar manager) has been staying out late at night. All she wants is for him to come home. She doesn't want to be a part-time wife. He's been going around with another woman. She has been using his car."

Said the judge: "I want that woman subpoenaed and brought into court, along with the husband. Meanwhile, I'll order him to pay $100 weekly for his wife and three children. I'm going to see to it that little children are protected from home wreckers."

The other woman wasn't named in Mrs. Bushere's suit.

Picket Picketer Is Ordered to Quit

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An Oklahoma City labor organization went to court to stop a picket from picketing its picket.

The Building and Construction Trade Council complained in Federal court that a spare picket showed up at a construction project here and began following one of its own sign-bearers.

Council attorneys said Dennis Boyles, not further identified, had ordered the man to trail the council picket, carrying a sign saying: "Forced Labor Tactics are Communitistic."

And this amounts to "an act of violence, intending to incite a riot," attorneys argued.

Judge W. R. Wallace issued a temporary restraining order halting the picket picketer.

About Town

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Weinrich, 1215 South Kentucky, and Mrs. R. C. Smallwood, 506 East Tenth, have returned home from a six-week trip which took them to the East Coast. Leaving Sedalia on Oct. 17, they went through Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, the Cumberland Mountains, and on into the Smoky Mountains where they found the trees at their height in color in North Carolina all the way through Georgia. Albany, Ga., is the pecan center and there are groves along the highway.

In Cairo, Ga., they visited Mrs. Weinrich's brother, R. H. Barley, leaving there for Brooksville, Fla., where they visited another brother, Virgil Barley. From there they went down the East coast along the Atlantic Ocean and on into Miami, Fla., taking several scenic trips along the beach and visiting Mrs. R. C. Smallwood's granddaughter, Mrs. Bob Fernandez and Mr. Fernandez, who recently moved to Miami.

Leaving Miami, they came back along the west coast to Florida, went through the Cypress Gardens where there were beautiful tree orchids, cypress trees and many other flowers. They watched the water skiing which was on television, "The Wide World." They went through large orchid gardens, Silver Springs, took rides in the glass-bottom boat, seeing many caves under water. This is where Ponce de Leon first landed. The majority of underwater movies are made at Silver Springs, as the water is so clear. Returning home, they saw beautiful Christmas decorations in cities in Alabama. They came through Mississippi and Arkansas and arrived home on Monday, Nov. 26.

TOYLAND OPEN IN BASEMENT

For '57 Styled long and low
—with lots of GO!

(Try the instant response of Buick's New Dynaflo*)

We'll admit it quite frankly. "New" is a word that's used a lot. But seldom has it meant so much that's fresh and different and better-than-before—as here in the newest Buick yet.

Take the new styling, because that's obvious at a glance. To get it so sweepingly low, the engineers started from the bottom, with a brand-new type of chassis.

It's an ingenious "nested" chassis that reduced car height as much as 3.4 inches, giving new lowness and raciness—without reducing road clearance or room.

It's a massive I-beam, X-frame chassis that's stronger and sturdier—and permits a new low center of gravity for far surer, far safer roadability.

That's the picture on style, beauty and brawn in every '57 Buick.

But no such picture can give you the feel of this new instant go.

Only when you take the wheel can you appreciate the new era of motor-ing pleasure and ease and safety brought about by Buick's new power-pitch response.

It's instant response—response set off by the hair-trigger action of a new 364-cubic-inch engine and the full-range flexibility of a new Variable Pitch Dynaflo.

It's response so eager, this Buick seems to anticipate your every command. Power flashes to the rear wheels so quickly and smoothly in "Drive," that the need for "Low" has virtually been eliminated. Even Dynaflo's famous switch of the pitch is seldom needed.

Come try it. Come see and feel the tremendous difference the newest Buick yet can make in your driving enjoyment.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Steelworker Will Continue Union Battle

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 37-year-old steelworker who earns $6,500 a year said last night he will accept the challenge of possible union disciplinary action in his fight to have the United Steelworkers rescind a $2 monthly dues hike.

The challenge was laid down by David J. McDonald, $50,000-a-year president of the 1,200,000 member union.

Don Rarick, chairman of a self-styled "International Dues Protest Committee" within the union, said in a statement he not only will press his fight for a special union convention to rescind the dues hike but will continue his campaign to get enough support to run against McDonald next February when the USW holds its quadrennial elections.

McDonald wound up a two-day meeting of the USW's 32-member executive board yesterday by saying Rarick and his followers were acting illegally under the USW constitution in demanding a special convention to rescind the dues hike.

Rarick's committee was formed about two months ago in the wake of the USW National Convention which authorized that dues be $5 monthly. They were $3. Rarick works at the nearby Irvin Works of U.S. Steel Corp.

McDonald told a news conference the dues increase had been approved overwhelmingly and said no action on the matter could be taken before the 1953 convention.

The union chief threatened possible disciplinary action against those in the Rarick movement. He said the protesters are creating "confusion, distrust and turmoil" and their action is a step toward "dual unionism."

A source close to McDonald said later if charges of "dual unionism" are proven against a member at a union trial the member could be expelled from the USW.

In his statement later, Rarick said the constitution and suggested said he is "acting legally" under that McDonald read it.

Rarick claims the international officers must call a special convention if 25 per cent of the approximately 2,700 locals demand it. He claims about 150 locals now have requested the special convention and said resolutions from 688 are necessary.

Rarick also said he has 8 locals backing him for president. He must be endorsed by 40, under the USW constitution, to have his name on the ballot.

Atty. Arthur Goldberg, USW counsel, said a special convention can't be called except for new business. To permit special conventions to change by-laws, Goldberg said, would leave the door open to interminable special conventions and would be "anarchy."

The Queen City Chapter No. 47, Order of Eastern Star, entertained their Grand Worthy Matron, Mrs. Leah Mae Kincaide, St. Louis who made her official visit to the chapter Nov. 21.

A turkey dinner was held in her honor, given by chapter members at the home of Mrs. Christina D. Richards, PGWM. The dining room was decorated with a Thanksgiving theme, and an arrangement of autumn flowers centered the table.

A reception was given at the home of Mrs. Octavia Moore in honor of Mrs. Kincaide. A program was presented with Mrs. Carol Banks, GDD, as mistress of ceremonies. Many gifts were received by the honoree.

Several out-of-town members were present including Mrs. Birdie Buckner, WM, Gertrude Madison Chapter 109, OES Marshall, and several members; Mrs. Susie L. Murphy, Most Royal Gr. Wednesday afternoon from four to five, the Youth Council of the Queen City Chapter honored Mrs. Kincaide with a reception at the home of Mrs. Carl Banks, one of the sponsors.

Mrs. Kincaide praised the Council for the work it was doing. Anita Foster president of the Council, presented Mr. Kincaide with a gift in behalf of the Council. Afterwards refreshments were served.

Officers Wives Club Holds Election Tea

Mrs. D. W. Davis, outgoing president of the Whiteman Officers Wives Club, presented gavel and workbook to the new president, Mrs. J. H. Murphy at the bi-annual election tea held recently.

A receiving line was then formed to introduce the new officers to the club members: Mrs. L. R. Jordan, first vice-president; Mrs. J. W. Harrington, second vice-president; Mrs. H. M. Price, treasurer; Mrs. A. M. Stephens, recording secretary; Mrs. J. L. Farrell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. G. Del Fatti, assistant treasurer.

The tea table was beautifully decorated with a yellow and rust chrysanthemum centerpiece, gleaming silver and tapers on a cocoa brown cloth. Light refreshments were served. The board table also had a centerpiece and held the colorful corsages that were presented to both the new and outgoing board members.

The wives of the Maintenance Squadron, consisting of the Periodic Maintenance Squadron, Field Maintenance and A&E Squadron were hostesses.

Postman Likes Dogs

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Postman William Van der Veen has two big reasons for standing apart from fellow mail carriers who complain about dogs.

Rex and Rockie, a pair of boxers owned by residents along Van der Veen's route, meet the postman when he alights from a bus to start his deliveries. They're his bodyguards throughout the day.

"I don't get even so much as a growl anymore," Van der Veen said.

Americans ate a record average of 81 pounds of beef each in 1953.

AN INTERESTING QUESTION

Since Sweet Sixteeners
Give Little Thought to Marriage...

...Why Are More
and More of Them
Marrying Two Short
Years Later?

Survey Shows Most Teen-Agers Are Against Early Marriages

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of Gilbert Youth
Research Co.

More girls marry at 18 than at any other age. Yet only a year or two before that, most of them are thinking of marriage as something far in the future.

This was what surprised us most in talking with the pre-marriage group of boys and girls—those between 13 and 17—to discover their ideas on early marriage.

A great majority of them favored matrimony at 23. Girls preferred 22 and boys 24.

A Nebraska youth said: "Early marriages are no longer practical. First, there's school. Then the Army. A fellow has to be at least in his mid-twenties before he can possibly support a family."

Said a Raleigh, N.C., girl: "Wives expect to work after marriage. And a good job is almost impossible to find without a college degree. So it's much more sensible to wait until education is finished and a girl can settle down to being a wife."

Most youngsters, however, feel that they would be ready for marriage within two or three years after high school graduation. They want time to mature and to get used to handling responsibilities before starting their own families.

"An 18-year-old getting married today doesn't stand much chance of having a really good marriage," asserted a teen from Delaware. "Why, at that age he or she hasn't learned anything about life. We all need time to grow, like plants."

One of our interviewers, a 1952 high school graduate, noted: "The only two divorces so far among my classmates took place with girls who had married at 18 or 19. Isn't this excellent proof of the danger of the too-early marriage?"

Then how long should engagements last?

Between 3 and 12 months, say 82 per cent of the 13-17-year-olds. Just enough time to get to know one another, they figure, without letting the relationship become a stale habit. If the engagement is too long, the romantic glow burns out. Too short—and the young bride and groom don't know each other well enough to hurdle their first argument.

And while the teen-agers were all in favor of romance, they were overwhelmingly positive about a well-paying job being necessary before marriage. The figures: lads 92 per cent, girls 87 per cent. In fact, when asked what was the most important prerequisite for marriage, 35 per cent voted for money. This ranked closely behind disposition, 38 per cent, and personality, 36 per cent. The teens made it clear, however, that they were looking for material means in a mate only because it would give the marriage a greater chance for success.

"It's not that I'm materialistic," explained a 16-year-old lass from South Dakota, "but everything is so expensive today. And marriage is tough enough without the added gamble of trying to make out on limited funds."

They turned thumbs down on money as an end in itself.

"The most loathsome people I have ever met," exclaimed a Tennessee high school girl, "are those who are looking for a rich husband or wife. They are the lowest element in the world. It's like buying the most expensive dress in the store just because it costs the most money — not because it's the prettiest!"

On the other hand, about half of the group felt that if they did marry in their teens their families should help support them. The percentages were: 65 for boys; 32 for girls. A smaller number believed their own family would contribute if they married very young—36 per cent boys, 30 per cent girls.

Seventy per cent said they wouldn't object if their parents supported them after marriage. A Minnesota lad explained: "It is the obligation of the older generation to provide for the younger until they are able to provide for themselves."

But an Oregon girl was indignant at the thought. "Our fathers and mothers have worked all their lives to build for their kids. When the young folks want to set up homes of their own, it is time for them to fend for themselves. If children want to be supported, they should stay at home with Dad and Mom."

Less and less now do lads consider it unmanly to let their wives work. Of the group we interviewed, 61 per cent of the boys and 40 per cent of the girls felt a wife ought to work during the first years of marriage.

They pointed out that women now have an important place in the business world. And they all admitted that two incomes are

Michigan Family Home For Thanksgiving

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wood and three children, Detroit, Mich., spent the Thanksgiving holiday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood of Beaman and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoerman and Lorene of Smithton.

The Earl Woods and the Ralph Woods and family spent Thanksgiving in Kansas City with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wirth, Jr.

A family gathering was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoerman and Lorene, Smithton. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. David Curry and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hoerman and son, Edwardville, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. William Hoerman and sons, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wood and children, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Farmer, Fortuna and Bernard Hoerman, Smithton.

more helpful than one in meeting today's high cost of living.

But working wives are still far in the future, the 13-17 year-old young people think. Marriage is 'way off.

Then how to account for more and more youngsters marrying at 18? It's just possible that at 18 they fall in love and all their fine talk of maturity and security is suddenly kids' stuff.

A REPORT

to the consumers of
NATURAL GAS
in our service area

CITIES SERVICE GAS COMPANY
FIRST NATIONAL BUILDING
OKLAHOMA CITY 1, OKLAHOMA

November 29, 1956

Dear Friends:

We want to keep you informed on what we have been doing to bring you the bright gas flame that serves you so dependably and economically throughout the year.

The illustrations around this letter will give you some indication of the money, men and materials required to deliver an adequate gas supply to you - - through your local gas company.

It has always been our policy to give first priority to the needs of the domestic consumer served by our distributors - - and to encourage the growth of the communities we serve by offering a favorable rate to industry.

To implement this policy we have invested over 53 million dollars in the past 5 years for additional facilities and improvements. This year we have budgeted 11 million dollars for the replacement and extension of 245 miles of pipeline and the addition of 7,250 horsepower to our compressor stations. We have also drilled 50 new wells in our underground storage system to increase peak load efficiency by allowing a faster flow of gas in and out of storage.

Operating costs continue to advance. A tight money market has raised interest charges on borrowed capital. In keeping with the industry pattern on wages our employees have been granted a substantial increase this year. The price of steel and other commodities has increased in proportion.

But in spite of these increases we are maintaining top efficiency under the rate schedules approved by the Federal Power Commission and we will continue to do so as long as possible.

Our history shows that substantial new investments must be made each year to provide the facilities required to supply a continuous flow of the clean blue flame that means better living to the 600,000 consumers in our service area. However, income must be sufficient to attract the new capital needed to carry on this enterprise.

We will continue to keep you informed.

Sincerely,

K. E. Crenshaw

Retired Major Plays Similar Role on TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—When Maj. Patrick Whyte enters a room, you find yourself rising and bracing. For the major exudes an ineffable military authority, even in multi-armed and friendly and not at all the model of a British military gentleman, retired.

Maj. Whyte is Col. Standish. That is not paradoxical if you're up on your 77th Bengal Lancers, and all romantically inclined individuals of all ages should be up on the Bengal Lancers.

They gallop through your living room at 7 p.m. on Sunday evenings over NBC-TV. Col. Standish, of course, commands the regiment. Quite.

"Let's face it, major. Considering my television inclinations, I can't figure why I like your 'Bengal Lancers.' Have you any idea why I do?"

The major smiled. "It tries to be authentic," he said. "We try not to let it become cowboys dressed up in the uniforms of the Indian Army. The Indian Army never was imperialistic, you know. Ninety per cent of its job was to protect the frontier. People absolutely opposed to each other—Mohamedans and Hindus—fought together. There was great esprit de corps."

Maj. Whyte should know, for he served in India from 1927 to 1944 with some noted outfits, including the 16th Punjab Regiment and the Jaipur Lancers, which had absorbed the Bengal Lancers in 1922. He also served in Burma and Africa. He somehow wandered to Hollywood where he has been since, writing movie scripts and serving as technical director for films such as "King of the Kyber Rifles" and several others.

"Technical advice doesn't take too much time," he said, "so I accepted small acting parts. I can remember every line of the first 14 pictures I was in. They were all the same, consisting of 'Yes, sir.' I always played the honorable gentleman."

As Col. Standish of "The 77th Bengal Lancers," he still does. He also has written some shows in the filmed series and serves as technical director.

To give authenticity to the series the producers built a replica of an Indian Army fort in the Mojave Desert where the terrain is typical of the Indian frontier. More than 100 uniforms, correct in every detail, had to be made for the actors.

Carbines similar to those used by the Lancers were acquired. The only difference between the originals and the replicas is in the breech—a small detail.

Brucellosis "Kick Off" Meeting.

Dr. A. L. Rosner, state veterinarian, and Dr. R. W. Boone, federal veterinarian, are in charge of brucellosis eradication work in Missouri, will be in Sedalia Monday night Dec. 3, for the local "Kick Off" meeting.

The campaign is under the leadership of the County Agricultural Extension Council and the deadline for signing petitions is Saturday night, Dec. 22. The township extension directors in each township are directing the sign-up, while W. P. Nicholson of the Hughesville Township is the county chairman. All Extension Club members and husbands are urged to attend.

Young Homemakers School.

Plans are getting underway to hold a Young Homemakers School in Pettis County. This school is to be developed for young homemakers under 35 years of age. The school will be designed to help young women who feel they need help in homemaking.

A course of study will be developed. The homemakers will choose the subjects for this course which will include Time Management, Food Buying, Meal Planning, and Money Management, etc.

These schools will be set up over the county and will meet once a week for approximately 5 weeks.

Any young homemaker interested is invited to send her name and address to the Extension Office, 118½ West Third, Sedalia, Missouri.

Cooking Vegetables.

How about reviewing the rules for cooking vegetables? Here they are:

1. Use a straight sided pan with a well-fitting lid.
2. Use little or no water. If water is necessary, let it boil before you put in the vegetables.

3. Cook quickly as possible. Removing coarse stems, ribs, and other hard fibrous parts shortens cooking time.

4. Boil vegetables gently to avoid breaking them.

5. Cook vegetables in their skins often. If you peel them, scrape or thinly pare them.

6. When cooking green vegetables, remove the lid after a few minutes to let the first steam out. That's how you keep that bright green color.

And last, serve vegetables as soon as they are done, because delay causes a loss of color, flavor and food value.

In short, remember, use a straight-sided pan with a well-fitting lid, and put vegetables in boiling salted water, cook a short time, and serve immediately.

Hold Family Night Supper in Green Ridge

The regular family night supper of the Green Ridge Presbyterian Church was held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21, with the Esther Circle in charge of the contributive supper.

Following the supper, Floyd Egbert conducted the devotional service which opened with the group singing a number of hymns, with Mrs. Egbert as accompanist.

Dr. R. C. Williamson of Sedalia who has been acting as supply pastor, since the resignation of Rev. Lewis Dunlap, presented the Bible lesson.

Mrs. Williamson was a special guest.

Estimate Third War Would Cost Nation 4 Trillion Dollars

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A third world war would cost the United States four trillion dollars, the National Resources Conference was told yesterday.

"There is only one thing that is worth that price," said Navy

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo. Thurs., Nov. 23, 1956 5

Capt. Lawrence Smith, "and that is freedom."

Capt. Smith said the estimate of the fantastic cost is based on what it cost this country in previous wars.

"Wars are financed by taxes and borrowed money that comes out of your pocket. And since the revolution, each one that we have fought has cost roughly 10 times more than the one that preceded it," Capt. Smith said.

He said world war two cost this country 363 billion dollars.

The conference at Trinity College is for 300 armed service reserves officers.

Covers Talk Smell of Oil On Mid-East

LONDON (AP)—"The Americans are deliberately opposing British policies, deliberately wooing the Arabs, in order to kick us out of the Middle East and take our oil."

That argument is heard increasingly in British discussions of the Suez Canal dispute.

This attitude dominates the right-wing members of Prime Minister Eden's Conservative party. It also cuts across political boundaries. It can be heard on the official and man-in-the-street level.

Even those who oppose what they call "Eden's War in Egypt" ultimately come around to questioning America's motives.

"Of course, your oil interests, etc.," is the way it is put.

The smell of oil pervades all arguments here.

Everyone is aware that Britain's industrial machine and standard of living depend on oil from the Middle East.

As a result there is suspicion of any move that could be interpreted as an American commercial victory at British expense.

That is how American policy generally is being interpreted.

American officials say it was "psychologically natural" for the British, confused and increasingly insecure as their nation's influence dwindles, to seek a scapegoat.

The phrase "American oil lobby" is becoming common currency. It recalls the "China Lobby" description several years ago, when many Britons argued that American support of Nationalist China was leading the world to war.

Stanley Evans, a Laborite, was forced to resign from the House of Commons because he supported Prime Minister Eden's Middle East policy. He said:

"The American State Department is the impregnable fortress of the American oil companies and they see British Middle East

Health Personnel Balk at Dog Shot

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Department personnel have been giving anti-diphtheria shots to all comers since an outbreak of the disease last Friday. But they balked when a well dressed woman came into the county health office to request an immunization shot for her dog.

oil growing to the stage when it might become competitive. "The Americans have been engrossed in two main struggles—one against communism and the other against the sterling area. And they have now made up their minds that the more important struggle is against the sterling area."

Artist Objects To City Tax Bill For Occupation

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Thomas Hart Benton says as an artist he is no businessman. He sent his attorney to the city division of revenue today to argue the point.

The city last week billed the famed painter for the $25 municipal occupation tax.

"Of course I don't object to helping out a city in need, especially one which offers such pleasant living and such varied entertainment," Benton wrote the Kansas City Star. "But I do think there is a principle involved.

"Art is a vocation. Its money returns are too erratic, too uncertain to be classified as those of a business. People practice art year after year with complete artistic success and never make a red cent out of it. Such devoted practice certainly should not be penalized.

"A rough future for art is ahead if artists . . . must pay for the mere right to perform."

Curtis T. Thatcher, city commissioner of revenue, disagreed. "As I interpret the ordinance," he said, "Benton is required to be licensed. He is carrying on a business enterprise like other people and should be taxed."

Thatcher said an assistant noticed a newspaper story which reported a $21,000 commission was awarded Benton for painting two murals for the St. Lawrence power and seaway development. Hence the tax bill.

Benton pointed out he does his painting in a barn located in an area not zoned for business position. Besides, he said, most of his financial transactions are handled in New York.

"I think the city hall should dig up a better excuse for getting dough out of me," he said.

William Woods Plans To Have Dormitory Rebuilt By Spring

FULTON, Mo. (AP)—William Woods College plans to open a rebuilt and expanded North Jones Hall by next spring with accommodations for 68 students. The dormitory was heavily damaged by fire Nov. 12.

The present structure will be rebuilt by Feb. 1 for use by 40 girls. Dr. Tilford Swearingen, president of the women's college said. An addition will be completed later.

Piece of Glass Not Cause for Damage

CLEVELAND (AP)—An appellate court has ruled that just because a person bites a piece of glass in a chunk of cheese, it's not cause for a damage award.

The ruling was made by the Ninth District Court of Appeals against Mrs. Gladys Tuttle of Cleveland. Mrs. Tuttle had won a $1,500 verdict in Municipal Court here against Meyer Dairy Products Co., of Cleveland.

But the Appellate Court, reversing that decision, said Mrs. Tuttle expelled the glass from her mouth without suffering any cuts or scratches.

Schoolrooms to Hotels—

Hungarian Refugees Are Seen Anywhere in Austria

VIENNA (AP)—You can see refugees from Hungarian communism anywhere in Austria—from the straw-covered schoolroom floor in a border village to the Victorian plush of Vienna's Hotel Sacher.

Nearly 100,000 have come into the country in the last month. More than half still live in camps where relief organizations figure they can be kept and fed for a dollar a day. Those who get to the swank hotels or even into comfortable boarding houses are extremely rare. They have resources of their own, or friends or relatives.

Along the 125-mile border between Austria and Hungary the Austrian villagers have dropped almost everything but the sugar beet harvest to help their Hungarian neighbors.

All of Burgenland Province belonged to Hungary until after World War I, and many of the older people speak Hungarian. There are 10,000 refugees crowded into the thousand-square-mile area.

At Andau, where thousands fled across the "Freedom Bridge" before the Russians blasted it, pink crepe paper streamers still hang from the rafters of the village inn's dance hall. Dozens of refugees bed down on the straw-strewn floor. High school students come down from Vienna to work around the clock, serving black bread, sausage and coffee on the rough tables.

Little knots of lost-looking refugees stand outside in the rain, waiting for buses to take them to slightly more comfortable camps.

Some of the men wear the fur hats and high leather boots of the central European peasant. Many of the women wear the best clothes they couldn't bear to leave behind, muddy now from the long walk across the fields.

One nine-year-old boy arrived without any of his elders, just his schoolbooks and a single pair of socks in a briefcase.

The biggest of the many camps is Traiskirchen, just outside Vienna, in what was once a school for artillery cadets.

Missions come there from the countries that want to receive refugees—to register and select those they think suitable. Some refugees never get to the camps. Trains sent by Britain, France, Denmark and Belgium back up almost to the border, load the fugitives aboard and start home.

Three Drugstores Ban Magazines

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Three drugstores have decided to ban all magazines from their stands.

Paul Blocher, owner of a pharmacy here, said that Hartman's Pharmacy in nearby Amelia and Colonel's Pharmacy in nearby Withamsville, had joined him in banning magazines.

Blocher was quoted as saying many magazines were not suitable for juvenile reading but that they had to be bought by the stores so other publications would become available.

The three stores will replace the magazines with children's books and games, Blocher said.

At 8:15 p.m. the Explorer Senior Girl Scout Ball will be held in the ballroom of the Missouri Hotel.

Glass Blower Holds Same Job For 80 Consecutive Years

By HAL BOYLE
CORNING, N. Y. (AP)—Frank J. (Yank) Hultzman is a man who looked for steady work—and did a better job of finding it than perhaps any other living American workman.

At 92 Hultzman, a retired glass blower who turned out some of the world's first electric light bulbs, has been on the same payroll 80 consecutive years.

A spokesman for the Corning Glass Works here said, "This service record is believed to be the longest continuous employment record in American industry."

Hultzman, a blue-eyed, Buddha-faced little man with a puckish sense of humor who wears a cap—even in the house—to protect his bald head from the cold, may well have hung up another record along the way. In the last eight decades he has chewed about 60,000 packs of tobacco.

He started chewing tobacco at 12 the same day he went to work in the glass works in 1876 during the last year of President U. S. Grant's second administration.

"He never missed a day of work in his life—and he never missed a day of chewing tobacco," said Mrs. Edna Sullivan, his widowed daughter. "He'll still chew two packs a day if I let him have them."

The old man grinned up from his chair like a small boy caught swiping cookies.

At the start of his career he was paid $3.30 for a 55-hour week. Glass blowing is hot work, and in those informal days one of his chores was to "rush the growler"—to fetch beer so the thirsty gaffers, or master glassmakers, could cool their pipes.

Hultzman is one of the few surviving workmen who can remember the birth of the electric age. He was on the scene in 1879 when the first glass "bubbles" were blown to enclose the glowing filaments with which Thomas A. Edison revolutionized the world's lighting.

Soon as a gaffer himself, he and two helpers were turning out 1,000 light bulbs a day.

"But I always knew the day of hand-blown bulbs would have to come to an end," the old man said wistfully. "People needed too many."

Today a single machine can stamp out 2,000 bulbs a minute, turn out more in five minutes than Hultzman and his crew could in a week.

Many of the friends of Hultzman's youth migrated to the big cities or went west to seek their fortunes. His life story is the simple saga of a man who found happiness in his own home town. One job, one wife, five children.

Hultzman has a cane but won't carry it. He has a pair of reading glasses, but won't put them on. He has two sets of false teeth, but won't wear them. Says he'll gum it the rest of the way. Besides the dentures interfere with his tobacco chewing.

"But he can eat anything, including steak," said his daughter. On fine days the old man likes to walk to a hill overlooking the plant where he worked so many years and reminisce.

"I can remember they used to pay us in gold pieces . . . on Sundays I used to give free haircuts to all the kids in the neighborhood, and sometimes I'd just cut one side and say, 'Come back next week and I'll finish it' . . . I used to like to go berry picking in the hills . . . I could get me a quart of blueberries or blackberries in no time—chestnuts, too—and now there aren't any in the hills . . ."

"In those days it was work, work, work on the job . . . they have it easier now . . . but when you do your work, you're all right."

Asked what he thought about the world today, the nation's marathon jobholder said: "It's going pretty fast. If it's got any better, it's because we tried this . . . and we tried that—we tried, anyway. 'Ain't anything bothers me. I'm happy.'"

Hultzman has one recent regret—that his brother, Jake, died last December just a year before he was to get his 75-year service pin from the glass works.

But he is cheered by the fact he has 29 living descendants, including his son, "Dutch," who has been 56 years on the glass works payroll and—at 70—is showing signs of settling down and staying put.

Bolivian Will Be Speaker At Fork Club

Members of the Knife and Fork Club will get a front seat view of conditions and problems of the Americans, North, Central and South, Saturday evening when they meet to hear Capt. Jose Guzman Baldovino, Bolivian Consul to the United States, and a former delegate from his country to the United Nations. The meeting will be at the Bothwell Hotel.

Capt. Guzman Baldovino, who says he prefers to be called "Captain Joe" than to have persons stuttering over his multi-syllabic name, is in the United States for dual reasons. Besides serving his country as Consul in Topeka, Kan., he is educating his family of four children in the schools of this country, which, he claims, are "the best in the world."

The captain, himself, is well educated, having attained a medical license from his own country and having been graduated with a Bachelor of Arts and a Masters Degree from Ohio Wesleyan and Emporia State College, respectively.

According to "Captain Joe" the need is imperative for greater solidification of all the Americas and because "you can't buy friendship or loyalty, let's not have handouts for the other Americas. Instead of gifts, let's be partners," he says.

The Bolivian Consul is something of a writer as well as a speaker. He has published a regular column in "Ultima Hora", his country's leading paper, and is the author of two books.

California Is Bad Forest Fires Locale

LOS ANGELES (AP)—This year, as every year, great black, ugly scars are spreading farther and farther over the foothills and mountains of southern California.

The area of valuable watershed blackened by fire during this disastrous season now totals more than 70,000 acres and the holocaust proceeds. Every acre of watershed that is burned off adds to the flood danger when the rains come later in the winter.

Professional firefighters agree that California is probably the worst place in the nation for explosive brush and forest blazes. Sometimes sun-baked brush is so lacking in moisture there isn't anything to crackle — and the blazes races with a terrible swift and silence against the unwary firefighter.

Last Sunday 11 trapped men died fighting a vast blaze in San Diego County's Cleveland National Forest that is still burning. The men were surprised by a wind shift, forced back against a cliff and boxed in.

"There was no confusion," said a survivor, Lionel Wood. "We did not know the fire was coming because it didn't make any noise."

Sudden wind shifts, or heat-produced turbulence called "fire storms," can be as bad. This was the cause of California's most deadly fire in October 1933. Twenty-eight firefighters were trapped and killed in a canyon in Los Angeles' Griffith Park, a large wooded area.

Fifteen men died July 12, 1953, in a Mendocino National Forest fire in northern California when a smoldering section of brush suddenly flared up.

In a survey of firefighters and officials throughout the state most of them emphasized that California, and particularly southern California, is a top fire hazard area because of dryness, wind conditions, widespread vegetation and steep topography.

There have been three major fires in southern California this season—the Cleveland forest blaze and two in the San Bernardino Mountains. One of the latter started Aug. 21, burned over 10,250 acres, and destroyed several structures. The other started Nov. 19, burned across 15,296 acres, razed several homes and structures and cost the life of one firefighter.

Says Money Refusal For Foreign Service Was Congress 'Folly'

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce says the refusal of Congress to appropriate more money for the foreign service was "folly to the point of national suicide."

The retiring ambassador to Italy added:

"When you think of the billions that we have spent abroad to prevent our own atomic annihilation, it seems folly to deny a comparatively small sum to the very service which is working hardest to prevent it."

Mrs. Luce expressed her views last night in addressing the annual dinner of the Advertising Council.

In Rome, Mrs. Luce said, she had no electric typewriter and only one dictating machine—the latter her personal property. She said staff members had to do a large part of their own typing.

Mrs. Luce mentioned that the "representation allowances" for entertainment of foreign officials were sometimes attacked as "the whiskey fund." Actually, she said, it was an "operational fund" spent in "the very market place of diplomacy."

Airmen Race to End South Pole Operation Before Ice Thaws

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—U. S. airmen flying missions from McMurdo Sound in Antarctica are racing to complete their operations before their ice runway melts.

Capt. Douglas L. Cordner, U. S. Navy squadron commander, reported the 6,000-foot runway now is only 25 miles from the edge of the fast-breaking bay ice. Last January the distance was 50 miles.

Engineers flown from the United States to repair an Air Force Globemaster damaged in a landing also have to get their job done quickly to prevent the three-million-dollar craft from slipping into the water among acres of approaching ice floes.

The Globemasters are scheduled to complete by Dec. 12 their drops of about 500 tons of supplies to the base being established at the South Pole. They also are to drop 250 tons of oil at a base to be built at Marie Byrd Land, 900 miles east of McMurdo.

Negro Students Stay Away From Classes At Tennessee School

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—For the second day in a row, all 10 Negro students at Clinton High School stayed away from classes today.

Bobby Cain, 16-year-old senior, said he and four others started to school but turned back when they saw a truck filled with white persons parked near the building.

"We got within about two blocks of the school, saw the truck and just decided to turn around and go home," Cain said.

He said he plans to return tomorrow and expressed belief the other Negro pupils would join him.

The Negro pupils stayed home yesterday because of what Jo Ann Allen, 16, and a junior, described as "the abuse we've been taking lately."

Jo Ann was one of three Negro girls at whom two white boys threw eggs the previous day. She said rocks were hurled at some of the Negro students Monday.

Orchestra Conductor Flees From Hungary

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Among the latest refugees to arrive from Hungary is Zoltan Rozsnyai, 30-year-old conductor of the Budapest Philharmonic Orchestra. Rozsnyai said he fled over the border under a hail of Soviet bullets, shielding his 3-year-old daughter, Christine.

He said more than 100 members of the orchestra have left Hungary. He hopes to regroup the orchestra in order to give charity concerts in Europe for the benefit of his needy countrymen.

US Officials Face Problem In Oil Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials concerned with the petroleum shortages spreading rapidly in Western Europe because of the Middle East crisis are wrestling with a two-pronged problem.

On the one hand, there is deep concern at the widening split with Britain and France and a desire to demonstrate U. S. friendship and support for those U. S. Allies were possible.

On the other, there is fear that if U. S. oil supplies start moving to Europe in great volume the reduced supplies still going to Europe from Arab countries in the Middle East may be jeopardized.

Fresh urgency has been assigned to U. S. plans for oil deliveries from the Western Hemisphere to offset the grave shortage caused by the blocking of the Suez Canal and damage to pipelines which followed the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt.

However, it is understood that London and Paris have been told that no such program can be set in motion until there is a definite public commitment that all British and French forces will be removed from the Suez Canal area.

This condition, of course, could be removed at any time by President Eisenhower if he should decide that immediate action was needed in the interest of preventing a further rupture in Allied relations.

An indication of Washington's concern over relations with Western Europe came from the State Department yesterday.

A spokesman denied that the United States is giving favorable consideration to any plan by which U. S. forces would be pulled out of North Atlantic Alliance countries in the foreseeable future. There have been some rumors that this country might agree to such a move if Russia agreed to withdraw troops from her satellites.

Officials said the reason for the denial was that the United States does not want any of its allies to get the idea that American participation in the European defense system has been or will be in any way weakened.

Uses Shotgun As Club, Is Fatally Wounded

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP)—Robert D. Stull, 22, of Madison, Ill., was using his shotgun to club a rabbit he had shot yesterday when it discharged, fatally wounding him.

A hunting companion, Shelby Siebert, also of Madison, told police the safety catch was on, but the blow broke the stock and the gun discharged. The accident occurred near the Chain of Rocks Canal on U. S. government property, officers said.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The operators of a jewelry store here decided their window sign offering free estimates on watch repairs wasn't quite enough come-on. They added this bit: "Cuckoo clocks psychoanalyzed."

Lions Hear Talk About Diamonds By Victor Esser

The Sedalia Lions Club, Wednesday noon, heard all about "Diamonds" from Victor Esser, of the Esser Jewelry Co., in Marshall. Lion Esser gave a complete history on diamonds, when they were first found more than 2,000 years ago and possibly longer, how they are mined, how they are separated on down to their being cut. He told of the various types of diamonds which are used for jewelry and those used in industry.

During his talk he had several displays of the diamond in the rough, and a display showing the various steps taken in cutting diamonds. He also discussed the various cuts of diamonds and their value to the stone.

The speaker was introduced by Carl Yates, program chairman for the month.

Guests at the meeting were Deputy District Governor Ed Schlegler, of Slater, accompanied Lions Esser to the Sedalia Club. Harry Goldberg had as his guest Ed Kehde of Sedalia.

It was announced at the club that Harry Goldberg had again been appointed as Zone Chairman. The appointment was made by Deputy District Governor Ed Schlegler.

Dorsey Funeral Draws Big Names In Music World

NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy Dorsey, famed "sentimental gentleman of swing" for more than a quarter of a century, will be laid to rest today.

Several thousand persons paid their respects to the bandleader throughout yesterday, last night and the early morning hours today.

A funeral chapel remained open all night so that theatrical people and musicians, working during the evening, might visit. Among them were members of the Dorsey Bros. band—led by Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey.

Among those filing past the bier were Lt. Thomas Dorsey III, stationed with the Navy in Hawaii, and Mrs. Lester Hooker of Richmond, Va.—son and daughter of Dorsey by his first marriage.

Following funeral services at 11 a. m. today burial will be in Kensico Cemetery, Valhalla, in Westchester County.

Honorary pallbearers include bandleaders Guy Lombardo and Paul Whiteman; TV comedian Jackie Gleason, and singer Dick Haymes.

Dorsey, 51, became ill in bed early Monday at his Greenwich, Conn., home. According to a medical examiner, he suffered an attack of nausea and choked to death on food particles which lodged in his throat.

Dorsey had been married three times.

Predict New All-Time Record—

Big Tourist and Resort Year Is Expected In Missouri

Editor's Note: The following is the second in a "what's ahead for Missouri series, prepared by the Missouri Division of Resources and Development. This article discusses "what's ahead for Missouri in tourist and resort business."

By LESLIE G. KENNON
Missouri Division of Resources and Development

Missouri is facing the brightest outlook in its history for tourist and resort business. H. A. Morris, head of the Missouri Division of Resources and Development's travel promotion program, predicted today.

Looking at the past years and at 1956 in retrospect, Morris said of its record business lately that "we believe this is only the beginning."

Actually, the vacation and travel business has been one of the most important developments in Missouri in the past 17 years. It has grown from $58,000,000 in 1939 to $275,566,000 in 1955. And, all indications are that 1956 will set a new all-time record high of approximately $280,000,000.

"The National Association of Travel Organizations," Morris pointed out, "has predicted a record turnout in pleasure travel in the next ten years and just recently, the National Safety Council predicted that by 1966 some 99,000,000 drivers will travel approximately 825,000,000 miles!"

Evidence of Missouri's drawing card in this line is what happened in 1954 and 1955. It was a drought year in 1954 and Missouri's vacation business fell off 5.5 per cent. Even at that, it was a smaller drop than experienced by many other states. And, when rains came and Missouri's many lakes and streams were more attractive in 1955, 10,000,000 visitors poured through its vacation portals to set an all-time record business.

"There are," said Morris, "many reasons why the travel business will continue to increase as much or more than any industry. More leisure time, higher birth rates, more spending money, people living longer and retiring earlier, more cars, shorter working week and better highways. Missouri is ideally located. Within a radius of 500 miles, there are conservatively 55,000,000 people."

To get its fair share, Morris explained, Missourians must be cognizant of what the travel business means to the state, to their city and to them as individuals.

"They must get behind movements to increase attractions for visitors and to make their surroundings more pleasant," Morris added. "We urge all communities to support the Chamber of Commerce and area associations in advertising their attractions by such methods as erections of signs to guide tourists to historic, scenic and special spots in which they might find interest; supplying of more parks and recreational areas for tourists, and, most important of all, friendliness of the people themselves."

A 1955 survey also revealed that out-state vacationers realize Missouri's many advantages as a vacation spot far more than Missourians themselves.

For example, out-staters spent approximately $133,000,000 while in the state and Missourians spent $32,566,000 within their own state. Other indications of the popularity of the Show-Me state among visitors were that 87.3 per cent of these were family vacations including an average persons per party of 4.2, spending 8.1 average days in the state with an average daily expenditure per person of $5.72.

"The things enjoyed most by these tourists," said Morris, "were, in order, sightseeing, historic sites, resting and relaxing, fishing and water activities."

"Missouri is unlimited in vacation variety," Morris stated. He pointed to the state's six major lakes and 25,000 miles of streams;

the 19,000,000 acres of rugged and forested Ozark hills to plains and the rolling green hills of the north; to its 24 commercial caves and 11 springs of the first magnitude including Big Spring, which, with its 840,000-gallon maximum daily flow, is the largest single outlet spring in the U.S.; the colorful spring with its dogwood and redbud to the flaming fall revue in the autumn, etc.

Missourians can look ahead to a truly bright picture in the resort. "But each should realize," Morris concluded, "that the vacation business affects almost everyone, since the tourist dollar turns over seven times in any single community."

All Parents Face Barrage Of Criticism

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Mothers smarting under the criticism of today's brand of superior offspring may take comfort from the fact that all parents are in the same boat.

Adele Simpson of New York, who designs clothes for some of the world's best-dressed women, says it's easier to face a roomful of buyers from the country's top stores than to undergo the scrutiny of her 17-year-old daughter, Joan.

"I'm getting a positive inferiority complex," says poised and perfectly accoutred Mrs. Simpson. "Just the other day Joan's father and I were planning to drive up to college and see her over the weekend. I telephoned Joan to tell her our plans, and she asked: 'But, mother, what are you wearing?'

"I told her I hadn't given it much thought, and she replied in obvious distress. 'Oh, Mother, do be careful! I worry about you so. Please, Mother, don't overdo things!'

"I haven't spent so much time selecting a costume in years. When we arrived, Joan inspected me anxiously, then relaxed and nodded a relieved 'okay'. But when we went indoors and I took off my coat she looked in horror at my tunic dress and gasped: 'But, mother! Your undershirt is showing!'

It's a real triumph when a mother can win the approval of one of today's highly critical daughters of high school or college age.

They worry for fear mothers will wear too much makeup, or a too-extreme dress when they are introduced to boy friends. They supervise all details of housekeeping and table etiquette when planning to entertain young friends. Fathers, too, come in for keen inspection. A familiar wail is:

"Oh, Daddy! Do you have to wear that dull old suit? Why not a nice casual tweedy sports coat? And — Daddy — would you mind smoking your pipe? It's so much more distinguished than cigarettes!"

Parents may take comfort in the knowledge that this is a phase

The school conducts a basic course in the operation and maintenance of various types of shipboard radar equipment. Students are instructed in all phases of radar plotting and navigation. The course also includes voice communication procedures and the use of sound-powered and radio telephones.

Graduates of the school are qualified to be members of the highly skilled combat information center teams aboard ship.

Minority Gives Road Trouble

The people of Missouri are permitting 15 per cent of the state's automobile drivers to create a nightmare for the remaining 85 per cent who are sane, sensible drivers, according to Highway Patrol Superintendent, Colonel Hugh H. Waggoner.

"The fact is," Waggoner said, "that 85 per cent of our drivers regulate themselves well at the wheel—they use good judgment, and they drive at sensible speeds. It's the remaining 15 per cent of our drivers who repeatedly commit the major portion of our violations. They set their own driving standards—particularly with respect to speed."

Waggoner continued, "Missouri must have a maximum highway speed limit enacted into law at the earliest possible moment. We recommend a 65 mile an hour day-time limit and 55 at night, and at the same time retain the present provision that speed shall be reasonable and prudent at all times depending upon traffic, road and weather conditions. The people of Missouri must realize that one of two things will ultimately result on this speed question—either the majority of drivers are going to pull the minority up to safer driving standards, or the 15 per cent minority will continue to pull the majority of good drivers down to further heartache and slaughter."

The present Missouri speed law is based on the "careful and prudent" rule, but in no way specifically defines such speeds.

US Olympians Garner 19th Gold Medal

First Full-Fledged
Rhubarb in 1956
Games Steals Show

MELBOURNE (AP)—America's Olympians stuffed their 19th victory into an already bulging bag of gold, set up another in the demanding decathlon and gave Russia a 30-point whipping in basketball today. But they surrendered the spotlight to the first full-fledged rhubarb of the 1956 games.

The 3,000 steeplechase, which usually manages to produce a surprise, came through in king-sized fashion when rank outsider Cris Brasher of England won, lost, then won again after hitting the tape a full 15 yards clear in a record-smashing performance.

The Olympic jury of honor finally awarded Brasher the gold medal after he had first been announced the winner, then disqualified for interference in favor of Hungary's Sandor Rozsnyoi.

A squabble over the result rang long after Villanova's Charlie Jenkins had rushed home first in the 400-meter run, versatile Milt Campbell and Rafer Johnson had begun opening up a big lead in the decathlon and basketball All-America Bill Russell and Co., had smothered Russia, 85-55.

With the day's finals over, the U.S. led Russia 318 to 219½ in the official team totals.

Brasher's victory, and his spectacular clocking of 8 minutes, 41.2 seconds—more than four seconds under the Olympic Mark set by Horace Ashenfelter in his victory for the United States in 1952—was announced to an almost empty stadium three hours after the race was over.

Rozsnyoi, so close to revolut-smashed Hungary's first gold medal of the games, was second. The only U.S. entry, Charles Jones of Boyston, Neb., was a well beaten ninth. Ashenfelter failed to qualify in Tuesday's trials.

Jenkins, whose home is in Cambridge, Mass. and who has done his best running indoors, ignored a bitter, cold wind to win the 400 by a stride from Germany's Karl Haas while world record holder Lou Jones of the United States was a disappointing fifth. Jenkins' time was :46.7, eight-tenths off the games' record.

It was the 12th gold medal scored by Uncle Sam's track and field squad and the cast for another was forged as Campbell, a former Indiana track and football star from Plainfield, N.J., and Johnson, a UCLA student from Kingsburg, Calif., pulled well ahead of the field in the first day of the decathlon competition.

With four of the day's five events completed, Campbell led with 3,642 points and Johnson was next with 3,475. Pole vault champion Bob Richards of La Verne, Calif., the third U. S. decathlete entry, was well down the list and waiting for his specialty tomorrow to move up.

Newcombe Given Cy Young Award For Games Won

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Newcombe was all set today to argue his case for a sizeable salary increase with a Cy Young Memorial Award added to his National League's most valuable player prize.

The huge Brooklyn righthander, slated to hold a salary confab with Dodger Vice President E. J. Bavasi this afternoon, was honored for the second time in a little over a week yesterday when he became the first winner of the annual award given to the outstanding pitcher of both major leagues.

The latest accolade is awarded in the memory of Denton (Cy) Young, the immortal Hall of Fame pitcher who won an incredible total of 511 major league games.

Only last Nov. 20 Newcombe had been voted his league's MVP award, becoming the first pitcher to gain this honor since Jim Konstanty of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950.

Newcombe received 10 of the 16 votes from a special committee of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America, consisting of representatives of each of the 16 big league clubs. Sal Maglie, Don's pitching mate with the Dodgers, was runner-up, just as he was in the MVP voting, with four votes. One vote each was given to southpaws Warren Spahn of Milwaukee and Ed Ford of the New York Yankees.

The writers considered only Newcombe's regular season work, during which time he won 27 games while losing seven to become the Dodgers' biggest winner since Dazzy Vance turned in 28 triumphs in 1924.

Spieser Wins Bout With Willi Hoepner

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Detroit's Chuck Spieser, the No. 1 challenger among the light heavyweights, knocked out Willi Hoepner of Hamburg, Germany in the second round of their scheduled 10 rounder in the Milwaukee Arena last night. Spieser weighed 172½; Hoepner 174½.

Hoepner, making his American debut, was rated sixth among the light heavyweights.

Whitaker Leads LaMonte Jr. High To Cage Victory

LaMonte battled Houstonia on even terms through four exciting quarters Wednesday night for a decisive 58-57 junior high basketball victory on the LaMonte court.

The hosts pulled ahead slowly in the first half with quarters of 10-7 and 17-15 for a halftime edge of 27-22. But the second half was dominated by the Houstonians who sliced their deficit to 43-41 at the three-quarter mark and then faced the disappointment of being held to only a one-point in the final stanza, losing the contest by only a one-point gap.

Whitaker was the standout of the game while awe-stricken fans watched the LaMonte ace rattle the backboards for 38 points, two-thirds of his team's total score. Heavily shadowed by Whitaker in the scoring department were Houstonia's Pummill with 18 and Carver who accounted for 16.

If Patterson Can Hold On, He May Win

CHICAGO (AP)—If Floyd Patterson can take a punch, Archie Moore may be in trouble tomorrow night when the world's heavyweight boxing title goes up for grabs at Chicago stadium.

Patterson, considered a 21-year-old phenom, can be hit, and has been. Only once, however, has he been floored. That was by Jacques Royer-Crey on July 12, 1954. Floyd's 15th bout as a pro. He came back to knock Royer-Crey out in the seventh.

The power-packed Moore, in 20 years of slogging has won 131 fights out of 156 and scored 90 knockouts.

In being steered through 31 matches against a wide assortment of opponents by the crafty "pick-the-spot" handling of D'A-ato, Patterson has lost only once while growing up to heavyweight proportions. That was a disputed eight round decision to Joey Maxim.

In the final analysis, it has not been established if Patterson can survive the viciousness of a punch that Moore is capable of delivering.

The scheduled 15 rounder will be televised and broadcast (NBC 9 p.m. CST).

"If Moore hits Patterson early and the kid survives, then Moore is in trouble," one observer said. "Patterson then will come on, and his speed and lightning-fast punches will have Moore in hot water."

"But if Moore hits Patterson and hurts him, then he can call his own shots. I think Moore will try to hurt him early."

The light heavyweight king, who automatically will yield that title if he succeeds in his second career at the heavyweight crown, rules a 7-5 favorite.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won the 1941 pennant with 100 victories. They finished second the next year with 104 National League wins.

Chicago Bears Win Would Stop Lions'

DETROIT (AP)—The Chicago Bears can all but demolish the title hopes of the Detroit Lions with a victory Sunday when the two teams meet in a National Football League scramble at Briggs stadium.

The Bears, who have the league's top runner in Rick Casares and the leading passer in Ed Brown, hold a half-game edge over the Lions in the Western division race.

A victory Sunday would put the Bears in a commanding position for their first division championship since 1946.

Detroit has seven wins and two setbacks, and with only three games remaining, a triumph over the Bears would make the Lions the favorites to reclaim the division title they held in 1952-53-54.

Navy Coach Juggles Players for Game

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy's first two teams against Army in Philadelphia Saturday will have five fullbacks, but the starter at that position will be a 165-pound former halfback.

It typifies the juggling done by coach Eddie Erdelatz in putting together this season two outfits he has used almost interchangeably to win six games, tie one and lose only to Tulane.

Sacred Heart Girls Edge Teenettes 38-36

Sacred Heart's girls volleyball squad bowled over Sedalia's Teenettes Wednesday night in a 38-36 overtime thriller at the Whittier School gymnasium. The teams finished in a 34-34 tie as game time ran out, but Sacred Heart managed to pick up the winning edge in the overtime period. It was the Teenettes' second loss against three victories to date this season.

Only three of the first string linemen, left guard Tony Stremic, right tackle Jim Martinez, and center Wilson Whitmore, have been in those positions regularly since entering the Academy.

Coach Stalcup Denies That 'Cut-In' Try

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Basketball Coach Wilbur Stalcup has denied a published report that he tried to lure Wilt Chamberlain to Missouri before the Negro star enrolled at Kansas University.

Stalcup demanded yesterday that the report, published by the Saturday Evening Post as a quote from Chamberlain, be retracted. He said that if the magazine and Chamberlain refuse, he will sue them.

The Post article, written by Jimmy Breslin, quoted Chamberlain as saying Stalcup met him at an airport while he was en route to Kansas and asked him if he would like to become the first Negro to play basketball at Missouri.

Chamberlain, 7-foot center for the Kansas team, was quoted by Breslin as saying Stalcup was "kind of trying to cut in."

Stalcup replied yesterday that "I have never said a word to Mr. Chamberlain in my life."

"Either Chamberlain was misquoted in the Post or he lied."

At Lawrence, Kansas, Basketball Coach Dick Harp, speaking for Chamberlain, said:

"That was a direct misquote of Wilt in the Post by Breslin. The man who spoke to Wilt was a Missouri alumnus who was in a group of Missourians who were at the airport when Wilt arrived for a visit to Kansas University."

At the time, Chamberlain was a Philadelphia high school student.

Harp said that Chamberlain told him "he never talked to Stalcup at the airport and never told Breslin that he did."

A Post spokesman in Philadelphia said it had checked with Breslin and he repeated the Chamberlain quotation from memory and verified it from his notes.

The Post said it has full confidence in Breslin as an accurate, competent reporter and is standing on its story as written.

Florida's Long Racing Season Gets Big Start

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Florida's long thoroughbred racing season got away to a booming start yesterday when 14,246 spectators poured a record $839,773 through the pari-mutuel windows at Tropical Park.

The crowd, while not as large as on Thanksgiving Day of 1952, broke the betting record set that day at $823,563, and led track and Florida State Racing Commission officials to look for a banner season that runs through next April 23.

River Divide farm's Decathlon, 3-year-old won the first division of the Tropical inaugural with a scintillating performance. It equaled the track and world record set by Nance's Ace in 1944 and tied in 1955 by Bold Bazooka at Hollywood Park in California at 1:03 1-5 for the five and a half furlongs.

Decathlon won by four and a half lengths over Elkan Stable's Apollo. War Age was third.

The second division, a wide-open horse race, went to Hasty House Farm's Grandpaw, a 4-year old who won twice in 16 starts before taking the winner's share of $7,837.50 of the inaugural.

Grandpaw's time was 1:05 for the five and a half furlongs and he won in a photo finish over Supreme Joy and Goldnose.

Louisiana Cage Coach To Resign From Post

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Coach Harry Rabenhorst, who guided Louisiana State's basketball teams to three southeastern conference championships in 28 years, will resign at the end of the present season.

The 58-year-old Rabenhorst said yesterday he was resigning "for my own sake and possibly for the university's sake. It's possible a young man might do a better job. Basketball is a young man's game."

Kerby Farrell Is Manager For Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pleasure teasing his face into an almost constant grin, Kerby Farrell emerged in public last night as the new manager of the Cleveland Indians.

So far as could be learned from him or Cleveland, Farrell took the job with no definite understanding on either the length of his contract or his salary.

"All I wanted was the chance to manage a big league team, and this was it," said the 43-year-old native of Tennessee who piloted the Indianapolis Indians to baseball's Little World Series championship last fall. "I can't tell you how happy and thrilled I am to get it."

A common guess is that Farrell will get around $25,000 in his first year as the 16th manager in the American League history of the Indians.

His succession to Al Lopez, who quit the Indians last September and later was hired to manage the Chicago White Sox, was formally announced at a press conference in a downtown restaurant. No one was surprised.

As Cleveland manager, Farrell becomes head of a club that finished the pennant drive second to the New York Yankees last season and was somewhat of a disappointment in its management and fans.

Indianapolis last season won the American Assn. pennant and swept the Little World Series from Rochester in four games.

Indiana Coach Quits

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana University today began looking for a new football coach. Bernie Crimmins, who left the backfield coaching job at Notre Dame to try to revive I. U. Football, resigned yesterday after five losing seasons.

During that span he won 18 games and lost 32.

Most Actors Have Other Ambitions

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Most movie

stars are a study in frustration. Few seem content with their lot. They want to be directors, producers, writers, business executives, resort owners, artists — anything but just plain actors. Jack Lemmon is a case in point. Now Lemmon has been hailed as the greatest new master of light comedy since Cary Grant graduated from juveniles. The lad even drew an Oscar for his pains as the scatterbrained Ens. Pulver in "Master Roberts."

But does that satisfy him? Oh, no. He's got to be a songwriter. "Until recently, I was the world's most frustrated songwriter," he declared. "I guess I've written a hundred songs and hundreds of melodies. I even wrote the score for a Broadway musical — which was never produced. I've never even had a song published—until now."

That's when his eyes light up. Success is finally his! Columbia needed a theme for "Fire Down Below," in which Lemmon stars with Rita Hayworth and Robert Mitchum. Lemmon had played some of his works for Jonie Tapp, head of music matters at the studio. When someone suggested Lemmon compose a theme, Tapp said okay. Recently the Lemmon theme was recorded at the studio by Morris Stoloff. It is hoped that the tune will do as well as Stoloff's "Picnic" theme, a solid hit with the juke box crowd.

"I went over to the stage when they were recording," Lemmon enthused. "I never had such a good time in my life. Even winning the Oscar didn't give me as big a thrill."

I asked him about his musical background. He explained he took piano lessons as a youngster. But like so many others, he forgot everything he learned. Despite his acting success, he still harbored the songwriting urge. "It's a terrific outlet for me," he commented. "If I go for two

Father, Son Banquet Held in California

The annual Father and Son Banquet was held at the California Evangelical and Reformed Church. A turkey dinner was served by the Womens Guild. The Thanksgiving Day theme was carried out in the decorations. Dick Spieler was master of ceremonies. Rev. R. Hermann, pastor of the Jefferson City Evangelical and Reformed Church, was the guest speaker. Music was furnished by a quartet composed of the Rev. Elmer L. Koch, Lashley Rohrbach, Walter Bueker and Joe Chambers.

After the dinner a film, "The Night Owl," was shown.

Raw Decision
LONG BEACH, Calif. — How does a professional muscle man keep in condition? Exercise and raw meat, says Mark A. Evans, a husky judo instructor. Well — almost raw.

10 seconds. Recently, weary of argument, he says he told a waiter: "Tell you what. Just bring the steak to the table. I've got a cigarette lighter and I'll do my own cooking."

Booth Watnough—

New Town, Country Engineer Has Family of Musicians

Booth Watnough, his wife, Helen and his three sons, Ernest, 16, Ricky, 11 and Jeffy, 9, have moved to Sedalia and are residing at 2004 South Harrison. Booth came here to take a job with Town and Country as an industrial engineer but there is something else, too, about the family. They are all musicians, even to Ricky and Jeffy, who play the drums whenever brother Ernest gives them a chance.

Booth was born and raised in Philadelphia, Pa., and was attending Pennsylvania State College studying to be an industrial engineer. At the same time, his musical ability paid off; he directed the large 16-piece band on the campus. In the town of State College, Pa., lived three lovely sisters, all singers, and one was named Helen, so Booth hired the three girls to sing with the band. The next thing he married Helen.

When Booth was graduated as an industrial engineer in 1938, he thought he would get out of music. He did pretty well until 1943, and during those years he worked for General Electric and Westinghouse in Philadelphia and Piper Aircraft in Lockhaven, as industrial engineer. Then in 1943 he went into service.

One evening he sat down at the piano in a service club and began to play. Someone heard him and that was it. He was back in the music field again as composer and arranger for the 653rd Air Force Dance Band, which had headquarters in Plattsburg, N. Y. That, said Watnough, was quite a band. There were men in it from Tommy Dorsey's Band, Benny Goodman's Band and other famous bands and he didn't have to worry about the payroll. Full time was spent on arrangements and rehearsals and they played for the entertainment of the service men, and at officers and enlisted men's clubs. They did some radio shows from New York City. In fact, he said, he was stationed in Texas, when he was told he was to be sent to Plattsburg, N. Y. He was thrilled over that because it sounded so close to home, which was Philadelphia. But he found that Plattsburg, N. Y., was almost as far from Philadelphia as it was from Texas, or so it seemed. He just couldn't seem to get home very often there, either, like he thought he would.

When he was out of service Booth went to the Taylorcraft Aviation plant in Alliance, Ohio, as chief industrial engineer, but after about a year there was a rolling recession hit the aircraft industry and within eight months practically every small aircraft plant went out of business including Taylorcraft. Then he joined the industrial engineers staff at Penn State, where he taught time and motion study, general accounting, cost accounting, production organization and administration. There he was, right back there at Penn State again where lots of folks remembered his campus band.

With time that he had Booth started a band again, a much smaller unit than he had had but from 1948 to 1953 it gained in popularity and they did a lot of playing. During the summer, when he wasn't teaching the band traveled. Booth thinks that the biggest disappointment he ever had in his life was in June, 1953, when Kate Smith, for a reason, dropped her 4 o'clock show in the afternoon program and he was contacted to bring his band and take her place. It was a wonderful opportunity and he and Helen and the boys in the band built air castles to no end. They went to New York City. They knew they really had something because everybody in the band could play any instrument, and they had plans of all playing as a trombone section, then putting the trombones down and everybody picking up trumpets, and so on. But somehow they never could get clearance with the New York local, and it just didn't work out.

So, Booth left college then and went with the Carlisle Shoe Co., in Carlisle, Pa., in June, 1954. Booth, Helen and Ernest, the oldest boy, formed a Hammond organ trio, with Helen at the organ, Booth playing tenor saxophone and piano and Ernest playing the drums.

Helen not only can sing, but she can play any type of instrument.

The trio played around for dances at different places and one night when they were playing for a dance in Harrisburg, the owner of a big club, Little Reno, at Colonial Beach, Va., signed them up for a summer contract. The family, all except Booth, went down to Colonial Beach and spent the summer. Helen and Ernest played every night and on Friday night Booth would fly down in their own plane and would play with them on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, flying back to the shoe business during the week. During the days, Helen and the boys had a glorious time in the water.

It was at Colonial Beach that Ricky and Jeffy tried their hands at the drum and were at it every time Ernest wanted to take a little rest. But if the rest of the Watnough family was popular, they had nothing on Ricky and Jeffy; people would just stay and stay around for the few minutes the little drummers would be on the job. They just loved them, and the boys delighted in their part of the entertainment.

Booth was with the Carlisle Shoe Co. until Oct. of this year, when he came to Town and Country Shoe Co. in Sedalia.

Here, he thought, nobody would know anything about the musical Watnough family and he could keep out of music. He never mentioned music to anybody and neither did his family, but anyone who has had as noted a musical background as that can't get away from it. From somewhere the Town and Country's own little newspaper found out and the story was out.

Booth Watnough smiled as he was questioned, and said, "I don't know how anybody found out about it, but I guess I can't get away from it."

Opinion Has Changed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — How times change!

A few years ago most everyone complained about the scratchy pens in the post offices.

Today, postmaster James Smith of Pittsburgh complained that patrons have swiped 34 of the 200 new ball point pens he's distributed in the past month. Smith suggested it would be cheaper to buy pens because the thieves face a $500 fine or a year in jail if they're caught.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Army is seeking forgiving Southerners who might willingly turn certain pieces of Confederate Army uniforms over to the "Union" — that is — U.S. Army.

The Army insists it's for a good cause — the Quartermaster Corps Memorial Museum. After all, it says, the museum is located at Ft. Lee, Va.

Given at Sorosis Meeting-- Book About Warrensburg Family Subject of Review

The review of the book "Papa Says" was delightfully given Monday afternoon at Sorosis by Miss Ruth Fitzgerald of Warrensburg, a former Sedalian, and the characters were even warmer and came to life more because Miss Fitzgerald knew well, Miranda, the teen ager of the 20's in the book and her beautiful older sister, Bianca. In fact she many times wanted to say Cena instead of Miranda, because it was a very accurate picture of Cena Christopher Draper, author of the book, in the 20's. Cena Christopher Draper, who sat on the front row at Sorosis laughed as Miss Fitzgerald told how she had watched the two girls grow up and remembered some of the things in the book. The book was even more interesting, too, because the story was written just as it was in the neighboring city of Warrensburg using the names of the streets, the drug store where the high school and college people liked to hang out, and the well drawn characters could easily be distinguished by anyone who knew them.

The story starts with Miranda asking her Papa how many children he and Mama had planned to have and Papa, with his cigar in his mouth mumbled a number that brought a breathless yell from Miranda as she repeated what she thought he said. "Ninety-one," she screamed, at which Papa took his cigar out of his mouth and roared: "Not 91, I said not a one!" This sent Miranda into a bunch of hysterical questions as she asked one by one if he had not planned on the three older brothers who were in Rolla at college, and then finally the beautiful sister, so perfect in every way, Bianca. He had not planned Bianca and anybody should have wanted to claim credit, thought Miranda, for planning Bianca. She felt she was so inferior that he certainly wouldn't admit he planned her so she didn't ask, she merely started crying and her mother came in.

Mother wanted to know what it was all about and then Miranda sobbed. "Papa said he didn't want any of us."

"Montgomery," said Mama and then Papa, who had certainly been misunderstood, went off in his extraordinary way of expressing his own views in very colorful language.

The family which consisted of Papa, Mama, the three boys and two daughters, Grandpa, Peck, the cook, the cat, Caliban and the beagle hound named Aerial.

One of the things that Miranda wanted most in all the world was a pair of red satin bloomers. The family could well afford the best but Mama just wouldn't allow Miranda to have silk hose like the other girls, she had to have black cotton stockings and black satreen bloomers. While all the other girls had beautiful satin bloomers of all shades, Miranda wore black satreen. When her birthday came, she had told everybody she wanted red satin bloomers, but gift after gift was unwrapped to find one gift of shaving cream from one of her brothers who hadn't forgotten the perfume she gave him for Christmas, silver spoons for her set, needlepoint, a dictionary, and the last gift that looked like it might be red satin bloomers, but which turned out to be another pair of black satreen bloomers. She was furious and slung the bloomers across the room. They landed in Grandpa's plate right in the gravy. The next day Grandpa came in saying he didn't like anything sopped in his gravy except bread and then he dangled before Miranda the most beautiful pair of red satin bloomers she had ever seen.

Living in the house, too, was Captain Marlin's ghost. And Cookie, the boy across the street, kept his chess set in the summer house where Miranda's Papa and Mama slept at night in the summer and where she was writing her book. He came over and played chess with Captain Marlin's ghost, which bothered Peck, the colored servant no end.

The house, Miranda said, had a lake—in the cellar. It was here that the Kitt youngsters put on many dramatic plays, usually very weird. It was one rainy afternoon that Miranda talked Bianca into one of these dramatic plays of their childhood and as beautiful Bianca floated on the cellar lake in a tub, her head resting against the big dent in it and a piano scarf over her legs so it wouldn't show how she had to have her knees up to get in the tub, Miranda in her father's hip boots, the coal bucket over her head for a helmet and her mother's silver tray as armor steered the floating, sleeping Bianca around through the potato room, on through the coal room and the various other rooms back to the sixth step of the cellar stairs, because the water was up that high. On the fifth step stood a strange young man, very handsome, and Miranda in the hip boots full of water was petrified. Then Bianca floated near him, he looked at her and said she was beautiful, then he kissed her and Bianca came to life and slapped his face, the tub turned over, the bucket fell on down over Miranda's head and the next thing, after somebody got the bucket off of her head, Miranda saw, was Bianca stretched on the kitchen floor in a pretended faint with Mama was taking on over her silver tray that had been ruined and Papa over his hip boots that were ruined, too. Then they saw a puddle of blood and discovered the young man, who was Miranda's cousin Reese, just arrived to stay at their house for awhile, had been badly cut on the leg.

And thus went Miranda's story, one incident after another with the popularity of the Kitt girls increasing with the Gay Street girls when they saw their cousin Reese. The adventures of Miranda in her everyday life were as wild as the flaming twenties are supposed to be and the story is told in a charming manner.

Avacados Add Color to Yule Meal

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Avocados, we find, are always successful on a party menu. As an elegant first course for a company meal, we like to serve them in the shell. To do this, we cut the unpeeled avocados in half, twist them apart and remove the seeds. Then we fill the cavities with a dressing made of olive oil, wine vinegar, salt, freshly-ground pepper and mustard—with or without the addition of a little catchup or chili sauce.

Sometimes, too, we fill the cavities with seafood or chicken salad and use them as a main course for a ladies' lunch. Or for a buffet party when we want an interesting accompaniment for baked ham, we may fill the cavities with a mixture of chopped fresh raw vegetables that have been tossed with French dressing.

Another party success is a mold of which the main ingredients are avocado, unflavored gelatin, mayonnaise, lemon or lime juice and other seasonings. This mold, made by the following recipe, stands up well, cuts beautifully and has an enchanting pale green color.

The citrus juice and mayonnaise in this recipe are added in just the right amounts for good flavor and to keep the mold from turning dark even if it is held overnight. For a ladies' lunch, the mold may be made in ring form and the center filled with seafood or chicken salad. Or it may be put into a large fancy fluted mold and turned out on a large round platter; it may then be surrounded with thin slices of smoked tongue or baked ham and a ring of watercress. You might keep this green and red combination in mind for use around Christmas time.

AVOCADO COMBINATION SALAD

Ingredients: 3 avocados, lime or lemon juice, 3 cups diced mixed fresh raw vegetables, French dressing.

Method: Cut avocados in half lengthwise, but do not peel; twist apart and remove seed. Brush cut surface with lemon or lime juice to prevent discoloration. Spoon ½ cup mixed vegetables into each avocado cavity. Just before serving, pour French dressing over vegetable mixture. Makes 6 servings.

Note: For the fresh raw vegetable mixture, tomato, cucumber, celery and green pepper make a delicious combination.

MOLDED AVOCADO SALAD

Ingredients: 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin, 1½ cups cold consommé or bouillon (fat-free), ¼ cup lime or lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, Tabasco sauce, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 3 cups sieved avocado, ¼ cup commercially-prepared mayonnaise.

Method: Sprinkle gelatin on cold consommé to soften. Place over boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in lime or lemon juice, salt, Tabasco sauce to taste and onion. Chill until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Mix avocado and mayonnaise; stir into gelatin mixture. Turn into a 5-cup mold; cover tightly with plastic see-through wrapping; chill until firm. Unmold before serving and serve as desired. Makes 12 servings.

Note: A 10½-ounce can of fat-free bouillon (beef broth) may be diluted according to the directions on the can and part of this soup used as the liquid called for in the above recipe.

Tranquilizing Drugs Could Offer Perils

By RENNIE TAYLOR

SEATTLE — Are the tranquilizing drugs robbing Americans of the tension, alertness, worry and fear which traditionally sharpened their ability to defend themselves in danger and shaped the country's progress?

There are signs that such a possibility lurks in the unscientific use of the "happiness pills," says two psychiatrists who have observed 8,200 people taking tranquilizers.

Although the pills themselves are not at fault and are potentially of great use in medicine, there is evidence they can cause undesirable effects which constitute danger to both the individual and to society, Dr. Herman A. Dickel and Dr. Henry H. Dixon told the American Medical Assn., yesterday.

Dr. Dickel and Dr. Dixon, from the University of Oregon Medical School, told the scientific section of the AMA they found among the 8,200 people these hazards:

1. Danger to the health and even the lives of persons who react "abnormally" to the drugs.
2. Danger to the patient's philosophy of morals and emotions.
3. Danger to the physician and to medicine generally because doctors are being subjected to enormous pressure to prescribe the pills.
4. Danger to society because it is being led to believe that no one ever should have to be afraid or to feel anxiety.

The hazard to health and life comes in people who develop unusual reactions to the drugs, said the psychiatrists. About 80 of the 8,200 became depressed enough to attempt suicide. Others developed types of mania which require more serious treatment and hospitalization. About 400 of the 8,200 patients had these reactions, Dr. Dickel said.

About 1,700 of the 8,200 were "precipitated into serious psychoneurotic difficulties" because the physicians who first gave them the drugs misinterpreted things that happened afterward to the patients.

Another group of 126 felt so good after taking the pills that they failed to follow up with other medical measures and became much worse than before.

The danger to society, the psychiatrists said, involves the traditional belief that Americans are a self-reliant lot, able to hold their own against adversity. On the other hand is a growing belief that no one should get upset about anything.

To forestall further trouble, Dr. Dickel and Dr. Dixon suggested a tightening up on the use of the drugs; a more thorough examination of patients before the pills are prescribed; more research, and a move to have drug manufacturers initiate public education campaigns about tranquilizers along the lines of those staged by some state liquor agencies on the effects of alcohol.

Charles Henderson Ends Basic Training

Charles E. Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd F. Henderson, 1411 South Quincy, completed recruit training recently at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

Relatives and friends of many of the new Marines were on hand to witness the graduation ceremonies.

The 12-week training schedule included drill, bayonet training, physical conditioning, parades and ceremonies, and other military subjects.

Three weeks were spent on the rifle range where the recruits fired the M-1 rifles and received instruction in basic Marine infantry weapons.

FROZEN HALIBUT STEAKS—broiled in deluxe fashion.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
If your family enjoys halibut, you'll find the frozen steaks are serviceable now. One of the simplest ways to prepare the halibut steaks is to broil them. We did just that recently, adding mashed potatoes and tomatoes to the broiling pan that held the fish. If you use a wooden plank instead of a broiling pan, follow the directions for heating that come with the plank.

Thick halibut steaks will need to be turned and broiled on both sides; but if the steaks are thin, we find they do not need turning. In the latter case, make absolutely sure the fish is opaque and done through by flaking a corner of the steak.

BROILED HALIBUT AND POTATOES

Ingredients: 1½ pounds thick frozen halibut steaks, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine (melted), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper, 2 cups mashed potatoes, 4 small or 2 large tomatoes and buttered dry bread crumbs (if desired), Pimiento Butter Sauce.

Method: Let halibut steaks thaw in refrigerator or at room temperature. Line broiling pan with aluminum foil leaving sides of foil up around edge of pan for easy removal. Place steaks in pan on foil. Brush steaks with melted butter; sprinkle with half the salt and pepper. Broil about 3 inches from source of heat for about 10 minutes. Turn steaks; brush with more melted butter and sprinkle with remaining salt and pepper. Spoon mashed potatoes around steaks. Arrange tomatoes (if used) attractively; sprinkle tops of tomatoes with buttered crumbs. Return to broiler; broil about 10 minutes longer or until the fish flakes easily with a fork, the potato border is browned and (if used) the tomatoes are hot through and their topping is browned. Serve on foil with Pimiento Butter Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

PIMIENTO BUTTER SAUCE

Ingredients: one-third cup butter or margarine, 1 drained canned pimiento (chopped), 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Method: Put butter and pimiento in small skillet or saucepan and heat until butter melts. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice. Serve hot with Broiled Halibut and Potatoes.

OTHER WAYS WITH HALIBUT

Creamed—Flake leftover broiled halibut steak and mix with cream sauce, cooked green peas and strips of canned pimiento for a delicious lunch or supper dish.

Sandwich Filling—Flake leftover broiled halibut steak and mix with finely diced celery, pickle relish, mayonnaise and finely grated onion (pulp and juice). Nice on thinly sliced rye bread.

Patties—Flake leftover broiled halibut steak and mix with mashed potatoes; season to taste. Make patties of the mixture and cook in butter or margarine in a skillet until hot through and browned on both sides.

Salad—Flake leftover broiled halibut steak and add to a green salad. Toss with olive oil and vinegar just before serving. Nice for lunch.

Canadian Dollar Brings Four Cents More Than Our Dollar

NEW YORK (AP)—The Canadian dollar is worth about four cents more in today's market than the American dollar.

This doesn't mean that the American dollar is losing any of its prestige in other lands—it is still the most sought after currency in the world today.

It does mean that Canada's vast postwar expansion is catching its second breath—that American dollars are flowing northward.

The flow has been particularly large in recent days because Canadians have been borrowing in the U.S. capital market—interest rates are even higher north of the border.

As these borrowed American dollars are exchanged for Canadian to go to work there, the exchange rates reflect this large supply and the Canadian dollar Monday rose to $1.0417, just a shade under the high of $1.0434 in August 1952 when a previous great spurt in investment in Canada was under way.

Some American businessmen watch this rise nervously. They wonder if the more expensive Canadian dollar may put any pressure for still higher prices on the things they buy from Canada—such as newsprint, woodpulp, metals, oil and chemicals.

Some Canadians also watch this rush of American dollars northward with concern. They know that investment funds are needed to develop Canada's vast natural resources. But they fret because the profits from this development may flow southward in future years. For a time last summer this was a prime political issue in Canada. Many contended that U.S. corporations should let Canadians buy into their subsidiaries there.

Americans aren't the only ones investing in Canada these days. There has been a flight of capital from Europe. Investors there feel the money will be safer in Canada than in troubled Europe.

In the first spurt of investment in Canada, in the first part of this century, it was British capital that financed Canadian expansion.

But since the mid 1920s American capital has been taking over. In the early 1930s when the British Commonwealth companies set up a preference system, U.S. corporations began setting up Canadian subsidiaries so they could export to preference areas from Canada rather than from the United States.

Another great spurt started after World War II when Canada was found to have vast resources needed to supplement those in this country—uranium, nickel, copper, oil.

There has been some investment in Canadian stocks and bonds—Canadian bonds, for example, have a higher yield than U.S. bonds. But most of the American dollars have gone into leases, plants, mines, wells and facilities.

The U.S. Department of Commerce puts U.S. direct investments in Canada at the end of 1955 at 6½ billion dollars—a sizable chunk of the total of 19 billion throughout the world.

Canada's dollar owes its present high rating largely to this investment. This year our northern neighbor is running a commodity trade deficit, imports topping exports by one billion dollars—more than double what it was in 1955.

By itself this factor would weak-

4-Year-Old Locked In High School Room

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Four-year-old Mickey Impens wasn't really lost 24 hours, he was merely the victim of a misadventure.

Police said his home is only half a block from North Hollywood junior high school and Mickey wandered over there to watch sports activities. Then he accidentally got locked in a washroom.

A search party found him there, more than 24 hours after he left home. After hot soup and kind words, the youngster was pronounced fit again.

Holiday Fires Starting Early

People today worry more over atomic bombs than they do over such little things as matches and lighted cigarettes carelessly laid or tossed aside.

A 16-year-old Indian boy threw a match in the grass setting off a forest fire near San Diego. Eleven lives were lost and 44,000 acres of timber burned.

In Ogdensburg, N. Y., a lighted cigarette tossed onto a Christmas doll display counter resulted in a million and a half dollars damage virtually leveling a four-story structure and spreading to three other buildings.

Christmas season is the time for extra precautions by Sedalia store managers, clerks and customers. More often than not store personnel decorate display windows and interiors with highly combustible materials. These range all the way from natural materials, such as the Christmas tree, cotton fluff and paper, to artificial things, such as some plastics and synthetic materials. Illumination of these materials, particularly by having light bulbs among them and the tendency to put a lot of makeshift wiring in displays, results in fire hazards.

Animated electric toys have the usual hazards of sparks and heat. These are intensified when placed in and around combustible decorations. Sparks from electrical trains may ignite cotton and packing material.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters says that it's possible some highly flammable clothing may be displayed in connection with Christmas costumes. Care should be taken to be sure it is flameproofed.

The fire disasters in Ogdensburg and San Diego emphasize the importance of shopkeepers and employees giving attention to a few of the elementary safety precautions during the next few weeks. Among them are:

Use only electric cords tagged for safety by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. Keep heat producing equipment away from combustible materials. Don't smoke while dressing display windows. Have wiring done by experienced electricians. If you have animated electric displays, have them checked periodically. Don't leave display lights on at night unless you have watchman service or sprinklers. Keep extinguishers handy.

Dispose of cartons and waste materials that accumulate from unpacking goods. Keep aisles and exits clear. Drill clerks in the handling of extinguishers. It is surprising how few know what to do with them. Take a poll and see.

Check those fuses. Be sure each one is a proper size for the circuit it protects.

And once again watch out for those lighted cigarettes thoughtlessly laid aside for a moment, then forgotten. It may cost someone a million dollars. It did in Ogdensburg, N.Y.

White House Rules For Moslem Mosque

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—The White House has been asked to decide whether a Moslem Mosque shall be included in the Christmas display behind the White House this year. Several clergymen among them the President's own Presbyterian pastor, Rev. Edward Elson, have maintained that since December 25 is the birthday of Christ and since the Moslem religion battled against Christianity for centuries the inclusion of a Mosque, if not sacrilegious, certainly is not in keeping with the Christmas ceremony.

The Christmas pageant of peace, one of the most beautiful in the nation, has been staged every year on the ellipse, the park immediately South of the White House. Here are arrayed not only the giant Christmas tree lighted each year by the President but also live reindeer brought from Santa Claus N. Y., together with a replica of the stable in Bethlehem.

One of the most important features is a series of pageants in which the Embassies of every nation are invited to portray either the Christmas spirit or the spirit of peace.

Clergy Object

Last year when the Pakistani Embassy contributed a Mosque there was some objection from local clergy. This year their objections are stronger. Some have even suggested that only Christian countries should participate.

However, Edward Carr, the patriotic ex-president of the Washington board of trade who originally put up his own money for the pageant of peace, felt that peace must be universal, not confined to one religion. He argued that the spirit of Christmas had come to include world brotherhood and peace on earth, rather than merely the celebration of Christ's birthday.

The Pakistani Embassy also pointed out that "Islam," the word on the miniature Mosque which they wanted to exhibit, means "Peace."

At a meeting of Embassy representatives, Mr. Chun Prabhavivadhana of Thailand got up and said:

"My country is Thailand. She is not Christian. We cannot put up a tree, but we will have our symbol at the pageant. So there."

Among others Carr consulted Rev. Elson, the President's pastor, who felt that the Christmas display should stress Christian ideology and feature the nativity. He did not favor non-Christian symbols. But he did not go as far as some ministers who wanted to bar non-Christian countries altogether.

Finally the matter was referred to assistant President Sherman Adams. Adams has had a lot of thorny problems to decide. He didn't shy away from this one.

His decision was in favor of world peace and brotherhood, the broader interpretation of Christmas. Non-Christian countries, he added emphatically, including the Arab nations, should be invited to attend.

FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM: No Traffic Panacea. Those who hope that the federal highway program will produce safe, trouble-free traffic are likely to run into sharp disappointment, according to economists who have studied the problem.

They note that the program envisions 13 years of road-building, during which time a considerable effort will be made to catch up with the number of vehicles on the road. But during the last 13 years the number of automobiles has doubled. There is no indication that it will not double again in the next 13 years.

Further, the worst congestion of traffic is not on highways. The worst congestion is in city streets, which are outside the federal aid system and which account for one-fifth of the total highway mileage.

Other attacks on the problem of the motor age thus are indicated. One method of meeting the congestion problem is to face it head-on, as does the Gruen plan proposed for Fort Worth, by reserving the busiest downtown streets surfaces for pedestrian traffic and providing easy access to them by divided, multi-level freeways.

Tough Problem for Democracy--

How to Finance Campaigns and Be Fair?

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON.—Money, or the love of it, has been called the root of all evil.

It's also the life blood of a political campaign.

So, for the umpteenth time, Congress is trying to figure out how campaigns can be financed without monetary evil.

This is one of the tougher problems a democracy faces. And if Senate committees looking into the question can come up with an answer, they will deserve a national vote of thanks.

On the one hand you have the question: If I believe in a candidate or his party, why shouldn't I be allowed to contribute anything I can afford to the cause?

And on the other hand: Should anybody be allowed to help "buy" an election? What favors do big contributors expect when they kick in to a campaign fund, and are they going to get them?

President Eisenhower dug into this question at a news conference last February and admitted he didn't know the answer.

A big contribution by a wealthy man "could be a very large one for me or for you," the President said, even though it might be small potatoes for the man making it. The President went on to say there must be constant study of this problem.

This is far from a new problem. Huge contributions were routine in the past. It's a matter of record that Dupont people chipped in a million dollars to Alfred E. Smith's campaign for President in 1928, even though the family has not been cordial toward the Democrats in late years.

Well, in 1940 Congress decided to act, but it accomplished little so far as doing anything about the situation was concerned.

The 1940 law says no individual may contribute more than $5,000 to a campaign, and no party or organization may spend more than three million dollars on a campaign.

This law has proved to be as full of holes as a rusty screen door.

If a rich man wants to endow a candidate, all he has to do is make a flock of $5,000 contributions in the name of as many different persons — his wife, his grandmother and even his infant children.

To get around the three million dollar limit, you just set up separate organizations — Citizens for Blivitz, or Volunteers for Whoosis. Set up as many as you like.

This is why the special committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas and the regular Senate Elections subcommittee of Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee are looking into the matter. One or both may come up with some recommendations for rewriting the law.

Public Interest Continues In Research on Smoking

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

The two most persistent questions which I receive on smoking are, first, whether smoking is harmful, and, second, what is the best way of stopping.

The first question is still difficult to answer in certain terms, although the amount of research now going on leads one to believe that before too long better answers will be available.

One can say definitely, however, that no one claims that smoking is a health measure or necessary in the sense that vitamins are necessary to the general well-being.

Other than this there is considerable difference of opinion as to the possible harmful effects of tobacco smoking.

We do know that the smoke irritates the delicate mucous linings of the breathing passages. Heavy smokers have coated tongues as the rule and many have slight coughs and hoarseness which is probably the result of irritation to these breathing passageways.

It is also quite clear that smoking interferes with athletic performance. It is practically a universal rule that competitive athletes in training should refrain from using this weed.

There is also considerable evidence that smoking is definitely harmful to persons with certain kinds of diseases of the circulation, such as Raynaud's disease or Buerger's disease.

In those not subject to diseases of this sort there is considerable variation in blood vessel response to smoking and this suggests that people do not all react alike.

In the last few years there has been an increase in the amount of lung cancer and the finger of suspicion has been pointed at heavy cigarette smoking. Cigars and pipes have not been incriminated as yet.

It seems true that lung cancer is unusual in the non-smoker, but it is also true that there are a great many heavy cigarette smokers who do not get lung cancer.

The statistics have been analyzed in various ways. Some who have interpreted them feel there is a definite relationship between heavy cigarette smoking and lung cancer and others consider that this relationship is not proved. At the present time my personal inclination is toward the latter view.

It is my impression that the easiest solution to the problem is not to start smoking at all, at least until the health aspects of the situation have been made clear. I do not believe there is any easy way for the long-time heavy smoker to stop, though many methods have been suggested.

One method, suggested in a letter to the Journal of the American Medical Association, involves breathing exercises.

The proposal was that the patient should be taught to breathe in and out 16 times a minute with normal inhalations. By practicing these breathing exercises for five minutes eight or 10 times a day for a month, the writer said, the patient regains his ability to breathe in a manner which enables him to be relaxed and comfortable when not smoking.

The writer said that after such preliminary breathing training 15 heavy smokers, each of whom smoked over 50 cigarettes a day,

Unspendable Foreign Money Piling Up In U.S. Coffers

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Disclosure at long last that members of 10 U. S. Senate committees spent $168,000 of U. S. government counterpart funds for travel abroad last year puts the finger on U. S. Treasury's tremendous operations in foreign currencies.

For the fiscal year ended last June 30 they amounted to over a billion dollars. This is more than it took to run the whole U. S. government for a year prior to World War I.

Foreign funds which the U. S. Treasury now acquires are in more than 50 different currencies from every important country in the world, outside the Iron Curtain. Bookkeeping and auditing alone are pretty involved.

Foreign currencies are collected and disbursed by more than 100 State Department finance officers and by Army, Navy and Air Force finance officers wherever there are U. S. armed forces and military assistance groups stationed abroad.

The largest single source of foreign funds today is from the sale of U. S. farm surpluses abroad for money of the purchasing countries. This accounted for more than 600 million dollars' worth of the foreign currencies collected by the U. S. last year.

When the Marshall Plan and the subsequent foreign aid programs were at peak operation, they provided the principal sources of foreign money.

The deal was that the U. S. gave aid to foreign countries. They paid for the aid with their own money because they didn't have dollars. The foreign monies collected by the U. S. were then spent by the American government for further recovery and reconstruction projects within the foreign countries.

These were the famous "counterpart funds" that Congress took a cut of to provide for travel expenses of "investigating committees" when they traveled abroad.

All a congressman has to do when he arrives at a foreign capital is to ask the U. S. embassy disbursing officer for local currency to pay for his travel. He signs a receipt for it, and then accounts for his expenses only to his committee chairman.

Up to the time when Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) made public first figures on last year's expenditures by Senate committees, it has been impossible to get a line on how much they were spending. There still is no breakdown by individual congressmen — who got how much in which currency and what he spent it for — although this is very definitely public business.

The treasury's real problem is how to get rid of these foreign currencies, once they are collected. They can't be exchanged for dollars and there aren't enough things the U. S. wants to buy. Congress, has, however, passed over 30 laws authorizing for what purposes foreign funds can be spent.

These are the 10 principal authorized uses:

To pay U. S. government bills abroad. To purchase goods and services in friendly countries. To develop new markets for U. S. products. To promote U. S. trade fairs. To purchase strategic materials for U. S. stockpiles. To purchase military equipment for mutual security. To make loans for economic development. To finance Fulbright grants for student exchanges. To finance informational and cultural exchanges. To finance translation and publication of U. S. books abroad, up to five million dollars a year.

None of these expenditures may be made unless Congress has previously made direct appropriations in U. S. dollars to government agencies operating abroad and for specific purposes.

Where such authorization has been made, the government agencies simply buy the foreign currencies they need from the U. S. Treasury, paying with the dollars appropriated by Congress.

Last year the Treasury sold 240 million dollars worth of its foreign funds to U. S. government agencies in this manner. But 445 million dollars worth of foreign currencies were requisitioned for government expenditures, without reimbursement to the Treasury. This left a balance of 355 million dollars worth of 90 foreign currencies on hand as of July 1. This is an increase from the 165-million-dollar balance of 1955.

What this points up is that when the Department of Agriculture boasts it has sold so many hundred million dollars' worth of US farm surpluses abroad, it hasn't sold them for dollars. It has sold a large part of them for foreign currencies that can't be exchanged for dollars and can't even be spent.

Ruth Millett Says--

Do Not Make Dad's Gift A Shopping Afterthought

Papa isn't actually the forgotten man on Christmas morning. But in all too many families Papa's gifts are more or less afterthoughts.

Mama shops for weeks or maybe longer finding the kids exactly what they want. She hunts the town high and low for something to please Cousin Agatha. She window-shops for herself so that she can give Papa a few broad hints as to what he can give her.

Then comes the thought that she hasn't bought anything for the man who is going to get all the Christmas bills.

So she sees a dressing gown and decides that if she buys that maybe she can get him to put aside the shabby, old one he feels comfortable in. Or she decides he could use some nice white shirts, or she gets even more practical and buys him a supply of underwear, socks, etc.

"There's so little you can give a man," she tells herself. "And besides, Joe never seems very excited over his presents, anyhow."

She's kidding herself, of course. There are just as many imaginative gifts for a man as for a woman. The woman who knows enough about her husband's hobbies and interests and personal economies has some idea of what he would like but hesitates to buy for himself.

She can come up with a number of gift ideas any one of which would really be just what her husband wanted.

And if Joe doesn't seem to get much kick out of opening his Christmas presents it is probably because his gifts have for years been mere afterthoughts.

So why not make your husband's gift the most important one on your Christmas list this year?

What you spend for it in money isn't nearly as important as how much you spend in imagination and determination to really get him just what he wants.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Salvation Army Temple, Fifth and Lamine, formerly the Central Presbyterian Church, was dedicated Sunday afternoon with religious and patriotic ceremonies. A flag raising ceremony was held with Fred Wesner, commander of the Pettis County Post, American Legion, delivering a brief address for the Stars and Stripes. The dedicatory address was by William A. McIntyre, Chicago, commissioner of the Salvation Army.

1931

Liquor, declared corn whiskey, in jugs hidden in post holes was confiscated on a farm south of Sedalia by Sheriff T. O. Herrick and deputies and Homer Vance, police officer. A suspect as to ownership was arrested and placed in jail but was soon released under bond.

1921

The "old shoe" campaign of the Boy Scouts aroused a great deal of interest and the boys while collecting them also received a considerable amount of toys to be repaired and distributed.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Michael McAllister and family returned from Keokuk, Ia., and took up residence on East Second Street. He was to be in charge of the local branch of the National Poultry Co.

1916

The annual show of the Sedalia Poultry Association attracted big crowds and in addition to the excellent display of poultry, a fine exhibit of vegetables and canned fruits was made by girls in 4-H clubs. The show was under supervision of C. M. Long, Pettis Co. farm agent.

1916

On the local market dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving were offered at 30 cents a pound with the offerings limited while a bountiful supply on foot was being quoted at 25 cents a pound.

1916

R. T. Dillard, Houstonia, moved with his family to Sedalia. He was selected as one of the deputies for W. W. Bolton, sheriff-elect.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

The Magi and the Shepherds took gifts to the Christchild when He was born in a stable in Bethlehem. This practice of giving to others on the birthday of Jesus has become a tradition.

As soon as Thanksgiving Day is past we see Christmas decorations and hear a crescendo of Christmas music. Christmas has become a season of happiness, but many have forgotten the spiritual purpose of the occasion.

We have many reminders of the gifts which we are urged to give, but along with the gifts we ought to give something of ourselves. We should honor the coming of Christ who gave His life that men might live.

Love and friendship, faith and hope must be a part of the Christmas spirit. Let us keep Christ in Christmas.
